Ohio's Weather Forecast Is: More of Same

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Northern Ohioans, beset by the snow-and-cold miseries, got a promise of more of the same today from the weather forecasters.
The U. S. Weather Bureau said four to six inches of new snow had accumulated by Thursday night in the snow belt across Lake, Geauga and Ash-tabula counties, bringing total accumulation to as much as two feet near Lake Erie. Snow squalls or flurries were forecast for today.

Tarlton Area Family of 7 Burned Out

Pickaway Red Cross Issues Appeal for Clothing, Furniture

A family of seven persons was burned out yesterday when fire destroyed their home approximately three miles east of Tarlton in Hocking County.

Left homeless are Mrs. Gertrude Valentine, her two daughters and three sons and Mrs. Valentine's mother.

The Valentines were awakened by the light from the fire. They had barely enough time to grab a few clothes before leaving the house. The Amanda Volunteer Fire Department was called.

An appeal for clothing and furniture has been issued by the Pickaway County Red Cross in conjunction with the Juvenile Court here.

MRS. Rolif Welford, executive secretary of the Red Cross, listed the following clothing sizes needed by the family:

Mrs. Valentine, size 46 clothing and size eight shoes; Mrs. Rhoda Delong, size 20 dress and size 8½ shoe, Patricia, size 12 dress and size seven shoe; Marilyn, size 18 dress and size 10 shoe; Merrill, size 16 clothing and 6½ shoe; Dale, size 12 clothing, and size 5 shoe; Kenneth, size 10 clothing and size one shoe.

The family is currently staying with Tom Willard in Tarlton.

Mrs. Welford said pick-up service for both clothing and furniture could be obtained by calling either GR 4-5736 or GR 4-3447.

An official of the Tarlton Volunteer Fire Department noted that all clothing and furniture may be left at the fire house there.

Clothing Sizes Listed for Blankenships

Pickaway County Juvenile Court today continued its drive for articles of food, clothing and furniture for the Jesse Blankenship family that was left homeless as the result of a fire Wednesday night.

Mrs. Ruth Neff, in charge of the drive, said that several local persons including Red Cross workers have donated their services in picking up items donated to the family. The service is available by calling GR 4-6550.

Sizes of clothing for the ten members of the Blankenship family were listed today by the court. They are:

Mrs. Blankenship wears size 48 in women's clothing and 5½ EEE shoes; Mr. Blankenship, size 16 shirt, 33-32 trousers, and size 9 shoes; Harley, age 22, 16 shirt, 32-32 trousers, and size 7 shoes; Bobby, age 15, size 16 boys' clothing (shirt and trousers) and size 7½ shoes; Maisie, age 13, size 14 girls' clothing, size 6 shoes; Rex, age 10, size 12 boys' clothing, size 5 boys' shoes; Martin, age 8, size 10 boys' clothing, size 1 boys' shoes; Kandy, age 6, size 6 girls' clothing, and size 8 girls' shoes; Juanita, age 3, size 4 girls' clothing, and size 5 girls' shoes. Food and clothing may also be delivered to the court offices on the main floor of the courthouse between 8 a. m. and noon tomorrow.

thermometer Thursday night.
The coldest spot in Ohio was Delaware, where 18 below zero was recorded. Dayton had 12 below, and a 21-year-old record was shattered at Columbus when the temperature fell to 10 below.

Other lows around the state included Cleveland -3, Cincinnati -8, Akron -5, Toledo -6, Youngstown -5, Zanesville -7, and Chesapeake and Marietta -2. The Weather Bureau said temperatures tonight would drop to 5 below to 15 below zero throughout the state.

Interstate 90 was closed for a while Thursday from east of Cleveland to Buffalo, N.Y. Drifting snow across the highway kept traffic moving slowly Thursday night. The Ashtabula County Sheriff's Office said the packed snow and drifts had reduced the safe speed on Interstate 90 to 25 miles an hour.

The Ohio Turnpike was reported clear of snow.

Because of the heavy accumulations in Ashtabula and eastern Lake counties school children started their Christmas vacation a day early in those areas.

The huge mass of arctic air which enveloped many areas in the eastern two-thirds of the nation again dropped temperatures to sub zero from Montana to Maine and southward to Kentucky. Freezing weather for the second consecutive day spread into northern Florida and along parts of the Gulf Coast.

The pre-winter spell of cold and heavy snow—a week long in most of the Midwest—was bamed for at least 22 deaths. Temperatures in the snow-covered north central region included 25 below in International Falls, Minn., and ranged to a chilly 26 above in Tallahassee, Fla.

The winter season starts officially Sunday.

YULE LUMINARIAS, considered one of the outstanding decorating projects in Circleville, will be displayed again this year on Christmas Eve.

Residents along Northridge Road, Beverly Road, Montclair Ave., Guilford Road and Dartmouth Drive are scheduled to take part in the unusual holiday event. The colorful custom originated in the Montclair Ave. area several years ago. Each year the participation seems to grow a little.

A caroling program on Christmas Eve at Montclair Ave. and Guilford Road will add to the Yuletide theme. Street lights along some sections of the specially lighted area will be turned off to make the luminarias all the more prominent.

The luminarias are part of an old Spanish custom that has remained popular in Mexico and the Southwest. The word luminarias means "festive lights." They consist of short-type candles anchored in sand at the bottom of folded down paper bags.

According to ancient Spanish custom, the luminarias serve to light the way for the Christ Child to enter on Christmas Eve.

The luminarias used here are spaced about six feet apart to make a clearly defined outline. The local project will truly be a sight to see on Christmas Eve.

VISITORS to the Pickaway County Recorder's office today were greeted warmly and invited to share coffee and cookies with Mrs. Hazel Yeatts, recorder. (Continued on Page 2)

Quints Make Big Change In Fischers' Christmas

ABERDEEN, S.D. (AP)—The jump from 5 to 10 stockings by the tree will mean a Christmas like never before for the Andrew Fischer family.

This time last year, the family was preparing for a quiet Christmas at its modest home outside town.

There were a few toys for the five children, a Christmas tree, candy and cookies.

Christmas never again will be that simple at the Fischer home.

When Mrs. Mary Ann Fischer gave birth to quintuplets Sept. 14, all the Fischers' lives were changed forever.

About the only things unchanged by the quint's birth are that Andrew Fischer still has his same job and three of the five older children go to school as usual.

This Christmas, the Fischers and their 10 children have an attractive 9-room home in northeast Aberdeen. Three of quint's are here and the other two are expected to go home from the hospital by Christmas.

There are almost more gifts than anyone has time to unwrap.

The altering of the Fischer family routine has been tremendous. Mrs. Fischer has full-time help with the children and housework.

Fischer, $80-a-week billing clerk at a grocery warehouse, has had his fortune increased substantially — although not to the extent many might believe.

A family spokesman says cash and merchandise gifts have totaled less than $10,000, not counting sale of story and picture rights to national publications which reportedly have added another $30,000.

Because of the sale of the story and picture rights, the family won't talk to newsmen about personal matters.

The City of Aberdeen is to build the family a home on a free site. A city official says the site probably will be selected by the end of the year.

The quintuplets themselves have lost none of their appeal in this prairie city of 25,000. Motorists arriving at the city on U.S. 12 and 281 are greeted by new 15 by 30 foot signs saying: "Welcome to Aberdeen, home of the Fischer quint."

The quintuplets have gained weight and strength steadily. James Andrew, the only boy, was well ahead of any of his four sisters in everything—getting into formula, getting out of the isolettes at S. Luke's Hospital, and getting out of the hospital.

Mary Magdalene and Mary Margaret went home only last Saturday. Mary Catherine and Mary Ann are due to go home very soon.

McNamara, Viet Nam (AP)—Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara, winding up consultations on South Viet Nam's U.S.-backed war against Communist guerrillas, said today, "I am optimistic over progress to be made during the coming year."

McNamara and top American officials based in Viet Nam had an afternoon-long conference with the ruling junta, including chief of state Maj. Gen. Duong Van Minh and Premier Nguyen Ngoc Tho.

The secretary, who had been given a somber briefing by U.S. officers on events since the Nov. 1 coup that overthrew President Ngo Dinh Diem, said Minh explained in detail the Vietnamese military plans for 1964.

McNamara said he made his flying 36-hour visit here from Paris "to discuss thoroughly the U.S. plans for providing support to Viet Nam." He gave no details.

He took off tonight for Honolulu, where he was to have a two-hour conference with Adm. Harry D. Felt, commander of U.S. forces in the Pacific. He then will return directly to Washington.

Village Waterworks Is Stalled by Fire
ALLIANCE, Ohio (AP)—Water pressure was expected to be restored to normal at nearby Sebring today following a fire at the waterworks plant there in which 14 persons were overcome by chlorine gas fumes.

Sebring Fire Chief John Watson said Thursday's fire followed an explosion of an oil heater, but said the cause of the explosion was not determined. He estimated damage to the plant at between $8,000 and $10,000.

The 14 were overcome when the heat caused fumes to leak from chlorine gas tanks in the filtration section of the plant. None of the tanks exploded.

Conferees Eye Aid Bill

House, Senate Seek Compromise

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate and House conferees will try to settle a difference of $470 million and iron out a dispute over grain sales to the Soviet bloc as they seek agreement today on foreign aid appropriations.

The Senate has voted $3,272,503,000 for foreign aid for the fiscal year that begins July 1, the House $2,801,700,000. It is the conferees' job to find a middle ground acceptable to both branches. The original White House request was for $4.5 billion.

This may prove easier to do than to hurdle the grains obstacle.

The issue was sharply drawn Thursday night when the Senate passed the aid bill 60-25 after deleting, 52-32, a House amendment to prohibit the export-import bank from guaranteeing credit for trade with Communist countries.

The House adopted the amendment by a vote of 218-69 Monday and Republican leader Charles A. Halleck hinted that if House conferees go along with the Senate in knocking it out, the bill be returned to conference. With the House planning to fold up shop tonight, a dead lock could result in putting the bill over until next year.

The Senate approved deletion of the commodity sale ban after Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield read a letter from President Johnson urging that course.

Johnson said sale of wheat and other commodities to Communist nations on reasonable terms are "good for our farmers and exporters, good for our shipping and railroad industry, good for our balance of payments, and good for the country."

"It makes no sense to jeopardize these possible gains by this legislative rider," Johnson said.

In addition to rejecting the House rider, the Senate turned back by wide bipartisan margins four attempts to make deep slashes in its appropriation. Two minor amendments trimming $27 million from the measure were accepted.

An amendment by Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., to reduce the bill to $3 billion was rejected 55-31. An effort by Morse to slash supporting economic assistance to defense pact allies from $380 million to $300 million was turned down 55-28.

On other votes, Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., was defeated 53-34 on a move to cut supporting assistance from $380 million to $350 million. Another Ellender amendment, to reduce economic development funds from $800 million to $600 million, was beaten down, 54-30.

Berliners Pour Through Wall

BERLIN (AP)—A great and joyful Christmas reunion was in full swing today as West Berliners streamed through the Communist wall to meet relatives in East Berlin for the first time in 28 months.

More than 1,000 persons had passed through the five crossing points in the wall some three hours after East German border guards lifted the steel, candy-striped barriers an hour ahead of schedule.

More than 30,000 West Berliners are expected to make the trip today. Officials estimate that as many as 800,000 may visit relatives in the East before midnight Jan. 5, when the Christmas crossings end.

East German guards, who still have orders to shoot to kill if any East Berliner tries to escape to the West, were extremely courteous and West Berliners passed through the controls rapidly.

Contrary to expectations, there were no queues at the grim concrete wall as dawn broke over the snow-covered city.

Clutching the precious one-day permits issued by the Communists after long and tough negotiations with the West Berlin city government, men, women and children passed through to the East.

ADN, the official East German news agency, said vehicles of the East Berlin Rescue Service were stationed at the Sonnenallee crossing to transport the old and infirm to their relatives.

The Communist visiting permits are good for only one day. The West Berliners must return by midnight except on New Year's Eve. Then the time limit is extended to 5 a.m.

About 40 West Berliners jumped the gun and saw their loved ones behind the wall for a

Sidney Man Accused in 2nd Holdup

SIDNEY, Ohio (AP) — The FBI today charged Lloyd Blackford of Sidney, with a second bank robbery—that of the same bank where police thwarted a robbery last Tuesday and captured the 33-year-old housing contractor.

Blackford, in Wilson Memorial Hospital here recovered from a shotgun wound in the neck inflicted by police, was formally charged today with the robbery of the same bank—a branch of the First National Exchange Bank—on Feb. 13, 1963, in which a single masked gunman escaped with $17,895 in cash.

E. D. Mason, FBI agent in charge of the Cincinnati office, said Blackford still had in his possession some of the currency taken in the February holdup.

The FBI said it was still investigating several other unsolved holdups and planned to question Blackford about them. These included another holdup at the local Exchange branch here Nov. 5, 1962, in which $6,705 in loot was taken.

Blackford was arraigned on last Tuesday's robbery while he lay in his bed at the hospital Thursday. U. S. Commissioner Robert Snell read charges against him of bank robbery, using a weapon to commit a robbery and taking a hostage.

Bob Hope Delays Tour To Visit GIs Abroad

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Comedian Bob Hope, on his doctor's advice, is resting a little longer from treatment for an eye ailment before leaving on his 12th annual tour to entertain American servicemen overseas.

He was packed and ready to leave Thursday morning for Turkey, Crete, Greece, Libya, Cyprus and Italy, but last-minute advice from his physician kept him home for a couple of days.

few hours Thursday, although today was the official starting day. The early birds put Thursday's date on their applications for permits, and the East German postal officials apparently didn't notice the date in the confusion of handling so many applications.

Officials on both sides of the wall were surprised when the first visitors walked or drove through the control points in the wall. But the Communists let them through.

War Crimes Trial Opens

21 Men Accused Of Mass Murder

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—West Germany's biggest war crimes trial opened today with 21 men accused of taking part in the murder of millions of Auschwitz concentration camp inmates.

The defendants are 20 former members of the camp's SS (elite guard) administration and an ex-prisoner who became a trustee. They are charged with murder or complicity in an undetermined number of gasings, shootings, hangings or fatal tortures.

Most of the victims were Jewish men, women and children. Many Poles, Soviet prisoners of war and inmates from various other nations also were slain. The camp, built in German-occupied Poland, was Adolf Hitler's biggest death factory.

A capacity audience of 160 persons was on hand for the start of the trial in the plenary hall of the Frankfurt City Parliament.

A 22nd defendant, Dr. Franz Bernhard Lucas, was absent because of illness and the court ruled he would be tried separately. But the court denied the application of another defendant, who sought a separate trial on the ground that he suffered from nervous seizures due to a circulatory ailment.

Former SS Capt. Robert Mulka, 68, is the highest ranking defendant. Mulka was adjutant to Auschwitz Commander Rudolf Hoess, who was hanged in Poland in 1947. Hoess' detailed diary is to be introduced in evidence.

Mulka and 11 others, including a doctor and two dentists, are being tried on charges of complicity. Ten men, among them the chief camp pharmacist, are charged with murder. The maximum sentence any could draw is life imprisonment. Capital punishment was abolished in West Germany in 1949.

Coast Guard Plans Search for Boy

CONNEAUT, Ohio (AP)—The Coast Guard planned to search today for Ronald Zito, 10, missing since Thursday afternoon from his home not far from the Lake Erie shore in Conneaut.

The boy's mother, Marjorie, told authorities Ronald took his dog for a walk after returning from school. The dog came home a few minutes later trailing his leash.

Police and firemen who searched the shore reported seeing tracks on the icy surface of the lake. The tracks could have been made by a boy and a dog, but authorities said the dog tracks returned alone from the shelf of ice extending a short distance over the lake's surface.

U.S. Orbits New 'Moon'

Polka-Dot Balloon Seen at Twilight

POINT ARGUELLO, Calif. (AP) — The "Christmas Star" satellite has achieved orbit and should be visible at twilight over the holiday season — and for years after, it was announced today.

A U.S. Space Agency spokesman said both the 12-foot diameter balloon and the cannister from which it was ejected in space were sighted with binoculars at an optical tracking station in Australia.

The satellite was launched Thursday and until the sighting it was in doubt whether it had, 1. achieved orbit, 2. inflated as planned.

The silvery, white polka-dotted balloon should be visible whenever its orbit around the earth's poles coincides with twilight moving around the globe. It has no internal illumination but can be seen as a moving pinpoint of light when struck by rays from the sun just below the horizon.

No schedule for sighting the new "Christmas Star" has been announced but a spokesman said there might be one by Christmas Eve.

Scientists lost the 17-pound satellite for hours because an internal radio beacon ceased working shortly after the launch Thursday.

They knew approximately where to look for it, however, because they were receiving signals from a radio beacon on the cannister which carried the folded balloon into space on the nose of a Scout rocket.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said the successful launch achieved one of two major goals of the mission — "to measure flight performance of the new X254 fourth stage of the Scout vehicle."

Project officers said similar uncertainty developed after the 1961 launch of the Explorer IV. That inflated sphere was located the next day by an optical tracking station.

Because of the satellite's holiday timing, it was nicknamed "Christmas Star," although its real name is Air Density Explorer. It was supposed to be visible at twilight as a moving pinpoint of light against a dark sky, its surface shining in the rays of the setting sun.

The Scout rocket that boosted the satellite into space was powered by solid fuel. The experiment was to determine the "drag" on the sphere exerted by thin air at the fringe of space.

3 Yank GIs Convicted

EVREUX, France (AP) — A U.S. Army court-martial convicted three American soldiers two Negroes and a white—today in the death of an airman in a fight between soldiers and airman at the Evreux Air Force Base.

The Negroes, Pvt. Richard L. Parker Jr. of Eckman, W.Va., and Pfc. Edward Spears of New York, were convicted of unpremeditated murder and assault.

The third soldier, Pfc. Alan L. Gernad of New York was convicted of involuntary manslaughter and attempted assault.

They were to be sentenced later today.

Airman I.C. Robert Padgett of Woodlawn, Va., was fatally injured Sept. 6 after a group of soldiers invaded an airman's barracks on the base.

The court was made up of five officers and three enlisted men.

Berliners Pour Through Wall

BERLIN (AP)—A great and joyful Christmas reunion was in full swing today as West Berliners streamed through the Communist wall to meet relatives in East Berlin for the first time in 28 months.

More than 1,000 persons had passed through the five crossing points in the wall some three hours after East German border guards lifted the steel, candy-striped barriers an hour ahead of schedule.

More than 30,000 West Berliners are expected to make the trip today. Officials estimate that as many as 800,000 may visit relatives in the East before midnight Jan. 5, when the Christmas crossings end.

East German guards, who still have orders to shoot to kill if any East Berliner tries to escape to the West, were extremely courteous and West Berliners passed through the controls rapidly.

Contrary to expectations, there were no queues at the grim concrete wall as dawn broke over the snow-covered city.

Clutching the precious one-day permits issued by the Communists after long and tough negotiations with the West Berlin city government, men, women and children passed through to the East.

ADN, the official East German news agency, said vehicles of the East Berlin Rescue Service were stationed at the Sonnenallee crossing to transport the old and infirm to their relatives.

The Communist visiting permits are good for only one day. The West Berliners must return by midnight except on New Year's Eve. Then the time limit is extended to 5 a.m.

About 40 West Berliners jumped the gun and saw their loved ones behind the wall for a few hours Thursday, although today was the official starting day. The early birds put Thursday's date on their applications for permits, and the East German postal officials apparently didn't notice the date in the confusion of handling so many applications.

Officials on both sides of the wall were surprised when the first visitors walked or drove through the control points in the wall. But the Communists let them through.

War Crimes Trial Opens

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—West Germany's biggest war crimes trial opened today with 21 men accused of taking part in the murder of millions of Auschwitz concentration camp inmates.

The defendants are 20 former members of the camp's SS (elite guard) administration and an ex-prisoner who became a trustee. They are charged with murder or complicity in an undetermined number of gassings, shootings, hangings or fatal tortures.

Most of the victims were Jewish men, women and children. Many Poles, Soviet prisoners of war and inmates from various other nations also were slain. The camp, built in German-occupied Poland, was Adolf Hitler's biggest death factory.

A capacity audience of 160 persons was on hand for the start of the trial in the plenary hall of the Frankfurt City Parliament.

A 22nd defendant, Dr. Franz Bernhard Lucas, was absent because of illness and the court ruled he would be tried separately. But the court denied the application of another defendant, who sought a separate trial on the ground that he suffered from nervous seizures due to a circulatory ailment.

Former SS Capt. Robert Mulka, 68, is the highest ranking defendant. Mulka was adjutant to Auschwitz Commander Rudolf Hoess, who was hanged in Poland in 1947. Hoess' detailed diary is to be introduced in evidence.

Mulka and 11 others, including a doctor and two dentists, are being tried on charges of complicity. Ten men, among them the chief camp pharmacist, are charged with murder. The maximum sentence any could draw is life imprisonment. Capital punishment was abolished in West Germany in 1949.

Coast Guard Plans Search for Boy
CONNEAUT, Ohio (AP)—The Coast Guard planned to search today for Ronald Zito, 10, missing since Thursday afternoon from his home not far from the Lake Erie shore in Conneaut.

The boy's mother, Marjorie, told authorities Ronald took his dog for a walk after returning from school. The dog came home a few minutes later trailing his leash.

Police and firemen who searched the shore reported seeing tracks on the icy surface of the lake. The tracks could have been made by a boy and a dog, but authorities said the dog tracks returned alone from the shelf of ice extending a short distance over the lake's surface.

He was packed and ready to leave Thursday morning for Turkey, Crete, Greece, Libya, Cyprus and Italy, but last-minute advice from his physician kept him home for a couple of days.

U.S. Orbits New 'Moon'

Polka-Dot Balloon Seen at Twilight

POINT ARGUELLO, Calif. (AP)—The "Christmas Star" satellite has achieved orbit and should be visible at twilight over the holiday season—and for years after, it was announced today.

A U.S. Space Agency spokesman said both the 12-foot diameter balloon and the canister from which it was ejected in space were sighted with binoculars at an optical tracking station in Australia.

The satellite was launched Thursday and until the sighting it was in doubt whether it had, 1. achieved orbit, 2. inflated as planned.

The silvery, white polka-dotted balloon should be visible whenever its orbit around the earth's poles coincides with twilight moving around the globe. It has no internal illumination but can be seen as a moving pinpoint of light when struck by rays from the sun just below the horizon.

No schedule for sighting the new "Christmas Star" has been announced but a spokesman said there might be one by Christmas Eve.

Scientists lost the 17-pound satellite for hours because an internal radio beacon ceased working shortly after the launch Thursday.

They knew approximately where to look for it, however, because they were receiving signals from a radio beacon on the canister which carried the folded balloon into space on the nose of a Scout rocket.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said the successful launch achieved one of two major goals of the mission—"to measure flight performance of the new X25 fourth stage of the Scout vehicle."

Project officers said similar uncertainty developed after the 1961 launch of the Explorer IV. That inflated sphere was located the next day by an optical tracking station.

Because of the satellite's holiday timing, it was nicknamed "Christmas Star," although its real name is Air Density Explorer. It was supposed to be visible at twilight as a moving pinpoint of light against a dark sky, its surface shining in the rays of the setting sun.

The Scout rocket that boosted the satellite into space was powered by solid fuel. The experiment was to determine the "drag" on the sphere exerted by thin air at the fringe of space.

Autos that failed to start during the early morning hours added to the hardships brought on by the piercing cold. In spite of the subzero weather, most activity in the downtown area continued at a normal pace.

Soldiers of the First Cavalry Division stood within 36 inches of the southern border of the truce line at an outdoor Mass.

Farther West, in the neutral village of Panmunjom, the Americans decorated a 20-foot Christmas tree.

North Korean troops in Russian-style uniforms and fur hats watched the Mass being celebrated and the Christmas tree being lighted.

JFK Threatener Said Kid Who 'Shoots Off Mouth'

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—Jailed on a charge of threatening the life of President Kennedy, young Russell W. McLarry insisted he was only joking.

Investigators acknowledged they had found nothing to link him to the assassination.

McLarry, a 21-year-old part-time college student described by his father as a "nice kid who shoots off his mouth too much sometimes," remained in county jail today in lieu of $2,500 bond.

He was arrested Thursday and charged with threatening Kennedy's life prior to the assassination Nov. 22. Secret Service agents quoted him as saying he was "proud—no, glad" that Kennedy was dead.

U.S. Atty. Barefoot Sanders of Dallas said:

"So far as we know, there is no connection" between McLarry and the President's death.

"We merely charged him with making a threat against the President, a definite violation of the law, but that's as far as it goes."

Sanders pointed out that McLarry apparently had no association with Lee Harvey Oswald, the man accused of killing the President.

Oswald died two days after the President when night club operator Jack Ruby pumped a bullet into his midsection as officers started to move Oswald from one jail to another. Ruby's murder trial is set for Feb. 3.

The complaint naming McLarry charges:

"On Nov. 21, he made certain threats to take the life of and to inflict bodily harm upon John F. Kennedy, then the President of the United States, by stating in substance that he would be working near the Trade Mart in Dallas, Tex., where the President was supposed to speak, and that he would be waiting with a gun to get the President."

Officers said the statements were made to two women the day before the assassination.

Charles E. Kunkel, a Secret Service special agent, said at a preliminary hearing before U.S. Commissioner Bill Atkins that McLarry told him "he was not sorry the President was killed. He said he was proud—no, glad—that the President had been killed."

Stocks Show Lower Trend

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market resumed an irregularly lower trend early this afternoon with volume slackening.

Gains and losses of key stocks ranged from fractions to a point or so.

The profit-taking aspect of year-end transactions appeared to be uppermost for the time being. The list was continuing the same kind of behavior it displayed Thursday.

Judge Orders Prison Terms

Two men were sent to prison today by Judge William Ammer following their release and reports from the Lima State Hospital where they had been for examination.

Joseph Richards, Circleville, was sentenced to the Ohio Penitentiary for a period of 1-10 years on charges of assault on a minor child. He was originally tried on a bill of information and entered a plea of guilty. The hospital's findings were that Richards was "sane," the court reported.

Thurman Eugene Blankenship, Route 1, Circleville, was sentenced to the Ohio Reformatory for 1-5 years on a forcible entry charge. Blankenship, found to be "sane" by the hospital, pleaded guilty to charges.

A Baltimore man also appeared before the court. Rudy W. Sayre was charged with violating the terms of his probation imposed on a non-support charge. The court continued his probation.

4 Guardsmen Tied to Blasts

Alabama Campus Probe Is Bared

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP) — Four Alabama National Guardsmen have been charged with touching off minor explosions near the University of Alabama while on federal duty to uphold court-ordered desegregation of the school.

Authorities say more arrests are expected.

Three blasts occurred last month—two Nov. 16 and one Nov. 19. All were near a dormitory housing Negro student Vivian Malone, who was admitted under federal court orders along with James A. Hood in June. Hood later withdrew.

The men arrested Thursday were with the last units still on duty after President Kennedy federalized the entire Alabama Guard during a showdown with Gov. George Wallace.

All troops were demobilized Nov. 20, the day after the last explosion. No one was hurt in any of the explosions.

The men were rounded up during the late afternoon and night. The first man arrested was 2nd Lt. James T. Perkins, 27, of Holt, Ala., a suburb of Tuscaloosa. He later posted $5,000 bond.

Police identified two of the others as Sgt. Norman R. Daniel of Fairfield, Ala., a suburb of Birmingham, and Cpl. James T. Maxwell, 27, of Tuscaloosa. Maxwell also posted bond.

Police Chief William Marable identified the fourth man as 1st Sgt. William E. Roughton of Langdale, Ala. The chief said the man was being questioned by city police and had not yet been turned over to county authorities.

Perkins and Maxwell were charged with the first Nov. 16 detonation. The warrant against them said they set off dynamite or some other explosive in or near the home of Rev. Lewis, who lives close to Mary Burke Hall, where Miss Malone lives. Daniel is charged with the Nov. 19 blast, which occurred about three blocks from the dormitory.

Watertown, N.Y., off Lake Ontario, was -19, and the mercury was still falling.

Thursday's blinding storms dumped more than a foot of snow in the Buffalo snowbelt area, forcing schools to close and choking off traffic for five hours on the state thruway spur running to the Pennsylvania line.

Swirling, drifting snow dropped visibility to zero on the superhighway. Hundreds of motorists were stranded along the road, while others groped perilously to service areas to wait out the storm's fury.

Another blast of icy air moved across the plains and headed into the lower Mississippi Valley.

Weather Bureau officials said no immediate general break in the unseasonable cold weather was indicated. However, they said temperatures were expected to moderate in parts of the Gulf region.

As the icy air dropped deep into the South, the mercury edged near freezing for the second straight morning in Tampa, Fla. It was 29 in Pensacola, Fla., 31 in Mobile, Ala., and near freezing in New Orleans.

Readings were more than 20 below zero in many sections of the Dakotas, Minnesota and Wisconsin and it was 15 below at O'Hare International Airport in Chicago. Chicago's 6 below was the eighth straight day of zero or below zero readings in December, an all-time record for the month.

Mrs. Yeatts said she was holding the open house early, since several others have been planned for the first part of the week.

"DON'T let a traffic accident spoil your holiday!" This word of caution came from the Circleville Highway Patrol post today. . . All local law enforcement agencies join in urging motorists to drive "defensively" during the holidays.

CIRCLEVILLE'S official overnight low was five degrees below zero according to the local weather station. . . No relief is in sight from the frigid air with a forecast low for tonight of 5-10 degrees below zero and high tomorrow of only 5-10 above. The city water department said several residential "freeze-ups" had been reported but none of any major consequence. Autos that failed to start during the early morning hours added to the hardships brought on by the piercing cold. In spite of the subzero weather, most activity in the downtown area continued at a normal pace.

Christmas Taken To Truce Line

ON THE WESTERN FRONT, Korea (AP)—American soldiers took Christmas to the truce line dividing Korea Thursday and showed it to the Communist North Koreans.

Soldiers of the First Cavalry Division stood within 36 inches of the southern border of the truce line at an outdoor Mass.

Farther West, in the neutral village of Panmunjom, the Americans decorated a 20-foot Christmas tree.

North Korean troops in Russian-style uniforms and fur hats watched the Mass being celebrated and the Christmas tree being lighted.

JFK Threatener Said Kid Who 'Shoots Off Mouth'

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—Jailed on a charge of threatening the life of President Kennedy, young Russell W. McLarry insisted he was only joking.

Investigators acknowledged they had found nothing to link him to the assassination.

McLarry, a 21-year-old part-time college student described by his father as a "nice kid who shoots off his mouth too much sometimes," remained in county jail today in lieu of $2,500 bond.

He was arrested Thursday and charged with threatening Kennedy's life prior to the assassination Nov. 22. Secret Service agents quoted him as saying he was "proud—no, glad" that Kennedy was dead.

U.S. Atty. Barefoot Sanders of Dallas said:

"So far as we know, there is no connection" between McLarry and the President's death.

"We merely charged him with making a threat against the President, a definite violation of the law, but that's as far as it goes."

Sanders pointed out that McLarry apparently had no association with Lee Harvey Oswald, the man accused of killing the President.

Oswald died two days after the President when night club operator Jack Ruby pumped a bullet into his midsection as officers started to move Oswald from one jail to another. Ruby's murder trial is set for Feb. 3.

The complaint naming McLarry charges:

"On Nov. 21, he made certain threats to take the life of and to inflict bodily harm upon John F. Kennedy, then the President of the United States, by stating in substance that he would be working near the Trade Mart in Dallas, Tex., where the President was supposed to speak, and that he would be waiting with a gun to get the President."

Officers said the statements were made to two women the day before the assassination.

Charles E. Kunkel, a Secret Service special agent, said at a preliminary hearing before U.S. Commissioner Bill Atkins that McLarry told him "he was not sorry the President was killed. He said he was proud—no, glad—that the President had been killed."

Stocks Show Lower Trend

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market resumed an irregularly lower trend early this afternoon with volume slackening.

Gains and losses of key stocks ranged from fractions to a point or so.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off .48 at 763.38.

Judge Orders Prison Terms

Two men were sent to prison today by Judge William Ammer following their release and reports from the Lima State Hospital where they had been for examination.

Joseph Richards, Circleville, was sentenced to the Ohio Penitentiary for a period of 1-10 years on charges of assault on a minor child. He was originally tried on a bill of information and entered a plea of guilty. The hospital's findings were that Richards was "sane," the court reported.

Thurman Eugene Blankenship, Route 1, Circleville, was sentenced to the Ohio Reformatory for 1-5 years on a forcible entry charge. Blankenship, found to be "sane" by the hospital, pleaded guilty to charges.

A Baltimore man also appeared before the court. Rudy W. Sayre was charged with violating the terms of his probation imposed on a non-support charge. The court continued his probation.

4 Guardsmen Tied to Blasts

Alabama Campus Probe Is Bared

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP) — Four Alabama National Guardsmen have been charged with touching off minor explosions near the University of Alabama while on federal duty to uphold court-ordered desegregation of the school.

Authorities say more arrests are expected.

Three blasts occurred last month—two Nov. 16 and one Nov. 19. All were near a dormitory housing Negro student Vivian Malone, who was admitted under federal court orders along with James A. Hood in June. Hood later withdrew.

The men arrested Thursday were with the last units still on duty after President Kennedy federalized the entire Alabama Guard during a showdown with Gov. George Wallace.

All troops were demobilized Nov. 20, the day after the last explosion. No one was hurt in any of the explosions.

The men were rounded up during the late afternoon and night. The first man arrested was 2nd Lt. James T. Perkins, 27, of Holt, Ala., a suburb of Tuscaloosa. He later posted $5,000 bond.

Police identified two of the others as Sgt. Norman R. Daniel of Fairfield, Ala., a suburb of Birmingham, and Cpl. James T. Maxwell, 27, of Tuscaloosa. Maxwell also posted bond.

Police Chief William Marable identified the fourth man as 1st Sgt. William E. Roughton of Langdale, Ala. The chief said the man was being questioned by city police and had not yet been turned over to county authorities.

Perkins and Maxwell were charged with the first Nov. 16 detonation. The warrant against them said they set off dynamite or some other explosive in or near the home of Rev. Lewis, who lives close to Mary Burke Hall, where Miss Malone lives.

Daniel is charged with the Nov. 19 blast, which occurred about three blocks from the dormitory.

Firemen were called at 8:50 p. m. yesterday to 120 Pinckney to douse a fire in a car owned by Jean Frazier. The auto was in a garage.

The blaze was blamed on a short circuit and a backfire. Damage was estimated at $100 by firemen.

Heaviest damage was to the battery, wiring, carburetor and radiator neck, firemen said.

2 Fined in City Court For Disturbing Peace

Municipal Court Judge Sterling M. Lamb levied fines of $25 and costs against two men charged with disturbing the peace by city police.

Pleading guilty to the charges were Thomas Hutchinson of Stoutsville and Willard Stout, 629 Elm Ave.

Watertown, N.Y., off Lake Ontario, was -19, and the mercury was still falling.

Thursday's blinding storms dumped more than a foot of snow in the Buffalo snowbelt area, forcing schools to close and choking off traffic for five hours on the state thruway spur running to the Pennsylvania line.

Swirling, drifting snow dropped visibility to zero on the superhighway. Hundreds of motorists were stranded along the road, while others groped precariously to service areas to wait out the storm's fury.

Another blast of icy air moved across the plains and headed into the lower Mississippi Valley.

Weather Bureau officials said no immediate general break in the unseasonable cold weather was indicated. However, they said temperatures were expected to moderate in parts of the Gulf region.

As the icy air dropped deep into the South, the mercury edged near freezing for the second straight morning in Tampa, Fla. It was 29 in Pensacola, Fla., 31 in Mobile, Ala., and near freezing in New Orleans.

Readings were more than 20 below zero in many sections of the Dakotas, Minnesota and Wisconsin and it was 15 below at O'Hare International Airport in Chicago. Chicago's 6 below was the eighth straight day of zero or below zero readings in December, an all-time record for the month.

The menu usually consists of rabbit, mashed potatoes, oyster dressing, creamed peas, coffee and pie. However, no game is turned down — so coon, duck, pheasant and other wild delicacies often enhance the bountiful repast.

The tradition of having the game supper for members at the last meeting of the year originated about 25 years ago, according to Bob Wolf.

Wolf, a retired Circleville fireman, has been in charge of preparing the feast since its inception. Each year he volunteers for the job. And he picks his own assistants.

THE OTHER club members never question the cook or his staff. Rabbits and other game are left at the Circleville Fire Department and that ends, for the most part, the participation of other members until it is time to eat.

Wolf's assistants are usually the same three persons — Bob Rader, Ted Culp and Martin Garner.

The Club was organized in the early 1930s. Originally a fish fry was held for the public and as many as 500 persons would come to the event.

But soon the cost of the fish fry became much higher than the revenue it returned. At this time the group decided to limit it to club members and make it a game supper.

Last night's meal was followed by the annual election of officers.

NEW DIRECTORS are Marion DeLong and Ralph England. Other directors of the organization are Eugene Owens, Wayne Rhoads and Martin Garner.

Films were shown and a drawing was held.

Cat Missing 7 Months Is Back Home

CINCINNATI (AP) — Little Valeria Borman is a happy girl. Her pet cat came home this week—in time for Christmas.

The cat—which doesn't have a name—disappeared last May and had not been seen since until Tuesday.

There was no explanation. Tuesday, as Valerie sat in her third grade classroom at Immaculate Heart of Mary School in suburban Forest Hills, she saw a cat sitting on the window sill.

She called to it, and it came running. Then her teacher called the Borman family to make the identification for sure.

But the family didn't have to identify the cat; it identified them. When the Borman auto arrived, the cat immediately hopped in.

And when they got home, the cat headed straight for its regular dining place.

"It seems as though it's never been gone," said a member of the family.

knew better than to crow, when this week he signed bills approving federal aid to education. His troubles in this field are just beginning.

It took Congress all year to pass three pieces, far-reaching but pieces, of President John F. Kennedy's broad aid to education program. Johnson inherited the sorest, most sensitive piece which Congress left unpassed.

This part has been a religious issue since Kennedy first offered his program in 1961: Federal aid to public elementary and secondary schools, but not to Catholic schools.

Kennedy excluded Catholic schools on the constitutional grounds of keeping state and church separate. Catholic spokesmen opposed it, unless Catholic schools were included. Non-Catholics opposed it if Catholic schools were included.

Kennedy, a Roman Catholic, never got to first base with it. Johnson, a Protestant, is pledged to support the Kennedy programs. The outlook for this one in 1964 looks dismal. This writer found no one optimistic about its chances.

Nevertheless, the Johnson administration is expected to push for it. This isn't the only Kennedy program which Johnson supports, but whose chances also look dismal. There's another: Medical care for the aged.

Time, too, will work against federal aid to education in the elementary and secondary schools in 1964. Johnson is plugging first for a tax cut and a strong civil rights bill.

A filibuster by Southern Democrats against civil rights might take weeks in an election year when Congress wants to quit early. This would gum up the Senate schedule, perhaps squeezing out any action on aid to education which, if it did come up, might also consume more weeks in argument.

These were the three pieces of federal aid to education to pass this year:

1. One to give loans and grants to public and private (including Catholic) colleges and universities to help build classrooms, libraries and laboratories. But this bill forbids use of government money to build divinity schools.

2. One to help finance the building of medical schools and give loans to medical students.

3. One to support vocational education, help school districts jammed because of nearby federal bases, and provide student loan funds.

It's that No. 1 measure which may encourage advocates of federal aid to education to think that Congress now might give similar help to both public and Catholic elementary and secondary schools.

There's a fine distinction in the reasoning about helping Catholic colleges and helping Catholic elementary schools, although it may not be persuasive with everyone.

While a Catholic child below a certain age level may be required by church regulations to attend a Catholic elementary school, there's no compulsion on a college age Catholic student to attend a Catholic college or any college at all.

Much more persuasive in getting that No. 1 bill through this year were probably factors like these:

The great need by all kinds of institutions of higher learning for financial help; the flat ban in No. 1 against the use of federal money for religious purposes; and the increasing population pressure of college-age students.

The root question still remains: Is giving aid to a Catholic college constitutional? There will be no answer unless the Supreme Court gives it, if someone appeals.

This other factor remains a stumbling block to federal aid to Catholic elementary and secondary schools: They do give religious instruction.

Cat Missing 7 Months Is Back Home

CINCINNATI (AP) — Little Valeria Borman is a happy girl. Her pet cat came home this week—in time for Christmas.

The cat—which doesn't have a name—disappeared last May and had not been seen since until Tuesday.

There was no explanation. Tuesday, as Valerie sat in her third grade classroom at Immaculate Heart of Mary School in suburban Forest Hills, she saw a cat sitting on the window sill.

She called to it, and it came running. Then her teacher called the Borman family to make the identification for sure.

But the family didn't have to identify the cat; it identified them. When the Borman auto arrived, the cat immediately hopped in.

And when they got home, the cat headed straight for its regular dining place.

"It seems as though it's never been gone," said a member of the family.

knew better than to crow, when this week he signed bills approving federal aid to education. His troubles in this field are just beginning.

It took Congress all year to pass three pieces, far-reaching but pieces, of President John F. Kennedy's broad aid to education program. Johnson inherited the sorest, most sensitive piece which Congress left unpassed.

This part has been a religious issue since Kennedy first offered his program in 1961: Federal aid to public elementary and secondary schools, but not to Catholic schools.

Kennedy excluded Catholic schools on the constitutional grounds of keeping state and church separate. Catholic spokesmen opposed it, unless Catholic schools were included. Non-Catholics opposed it if Catholic schools were included.

Kennedy, a Roman Catholic, never got to first base with it, Johnson, a Protestant, is pledged to support the Kennedy programs. The outlook for this one in 1964 looks dismal. This writer found no one optimistic about its chances.

Nevertheless, the Johnson administration is expected to push for it. This isn't the only Kennedy program which Johnson supports, but whose chances also look dismal. There's another: Medical care for the aged.

NEW YORK (AP) — Giraffes are capable of throaty growls; chameleons don't change color to camouflage themselves, and bulls do not react wildly to the color red.

Last Sunday, on an NBC program aimed at younger audiences, a man named Marlin Perkins demonstrated conclusively that many ideas about animals are myths.

He showed a sound film he shot in Africa that recorded the voices of reputedly mute giraffes. He placed a chameleon on a number of backgrounds including a sporty red plaid, and the creature remained the same brownish green color. The bull obviously reacted to the movement of material, not its color.

Perkins' weekly program, "Wild Kingdom," has been fascinating the public for two seasons. But Perkins, director of the St. Louis Zoo, is a television veteran whose "Zoo Parade" was a popular Sunday afternoon program for nine years, until 1957.

Over the years Perkins has taught thousands of youngsters how to handle animals, feed them, and avoid frightening or hurting them. Next Sunday, the program will show experiments on the intelligence of monkeys.

Recommended Sunday viewing: "To Men of Good Will," CBS, 10-11 a.m. EST — Special program of holiday music and poetry; "Sunday," NBC 3:30-5 p.m. — edition of a regular program to include an interview with British Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home and the candle lighting service at Lincoln Memorial with a speech by President Johnson; "Meet the Press," NBC, 6-6:30 p.m. — Adlai E. Stevenson, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, is the guest; "The Story of Christmas," NBC special, 10-11 p.m. — musical program starring Tennessee Ernie Ford.

in the 4-H and Grange Building at the Fairgrounds.

The menu usually consists of rabbit, mashed potatoes, oyster dressing, creamed peas, coffee and pie. However, no game is turned down — so coon, duck, pheasant and other wild delicacies often enhance the bountiful repast.

The tradition of having the game supper for members at the last meeting of the year originated about 25 years ago, according to Bob Wolf.

Wolf, a retired Circleville fireman, has been in charge of preparing the feast since its inception. Each year he volunteers for the job. And he picks his own assistants.

THE OTHER club members never question the cook or his staff. Rabbits and other game are left at the Circleville Fire Department and that ends, for the most part, the participation of other members until it is time to eat.

Wolf's assistants are usually the same three persons — Bob Rader, Ted Culp and Martin Garner.

The Club was organized in the early 1930s. Originally a fish fry was held for the public and as many as 500 persons would come to the event.

But soon the cost of the fish fry became much higher than the revenue it returned. At this time the group decided to limit it to club members and make it a game supper. Last night's meal was followed by the annual election of officers.

The complete slate of officers was reelected. They are: Dr. H. W. Fraas, president; Marvin Conkle, vice president; Dick Redman, secretary; and Bob Rader, treasurer.

NEW DIRECTORS are Marion DeLong and Ralph England. Other directors of the organization are Eugene Owens, Wayne Rhoads and Martin Garner.

Teen-Agers Take Action

Everyone is for enthusiasm among teen-agers, but some will be aghast at the results of a statewide teen-age cancer conference held in Kansas. Stunned by the information they received on the relationship of smoking to lung cancer, a number of the youngsters declared their intentions to "educate" and "shock" their parents into stopping smoking.

Try and Stop Me By BENNETT CERF

ONE OF John Ringling North's favorite yarns concerns the wisp of a man who bought a ferocious tiger at an auction sale, outbidding several prominent circus proprietors. "What on earth do you propose doing with that man-eating beast?" he was asked by the trainer of a wild-animal act. "Going into competition with us?"

"Oh, no," said the little man. "It isn't that. But my wife's taking a trip around the world—and I'm lonely."

During one of the tensest moments of "How the West Was Won" at the Cinerama Theater, an elderly gentleman began groping for something on the floor, greatly disturbing a lady in the next seat. "What have you lost?" she inquired testily. "A caramel," said the man. "You're going to all this bother for a measly caramel?" she demanded. "Yes," was the reply. "My teeth are in it."

Eaton Stuck with Coal By John Chamberlain

After many months of backing and filling by the Interstate Commerce Commission, some of the big railroad mergers are at last becoming a reality. The Atlantic Coast Line has been allowed to merge with the Seaboard Air Line, and the Chesapeake and Ohio has picked up the Baltimore and Ohio.

The "Chessy" B and O wedding, which will give profitable employment to C and O. cash, is a tribute to the economic foresight of old Cyrus Eaton of Cleveland, Ohio, C and O board chairman who decided the railroad business was worth an extended flier for himself when the late Robert R. Young achieved control of the C and O. Young, over the years, achieved much more fame as a railroad man than Eaton ever did — but of the two, Eaton made the best bet on the future.

The C and O. has always made its big money out of coal, which it carries downhill from the mountain coves of West Virginia to tidewater in Virginia. But it so happened that dependence on coal bore Robert Young. He thought the future of the railroad business demanded a renaissance in the passenger-carrying end of things. Accordingly, he tried all sorts of gimmicks on the C and O., showing first-run movies on through trains from Washington, D. C., to Cincinnati, Ohio, and doing away with time-consuming waiting at the windows for tickets. But the C and O. never attracted enough passengers to give Young any real scope. Thinking, in the late Nineteen Forties, that coal had seen its best days as a fuel, Young plotted and planned to make his jump to the New York Central. On his second try he succeeded in getting control of the Central, whereupon he resigned from the C and O. leaving it to his old pal Eaton.

Eaton, though he has praised Bob Young as a genius, thought Young was all wrong in distrusting the future of coal. Before getting interested in all sorts of primary extraction business, such as Steep Rock iron ore in Canada and coal in West Kentucky, Eaton has been in the electrical utility business. He knew that the generation of electrical power from coal-burning steam plants was continually improving at a time when new water power sites were becoming scarce. And he doubted that atomic power would become competitive with coal for a long time.

So Eaton stuck with coal over the decade of the Fifties while Young's New York Central continued an ill-starred attempt to make money on the passenger traffic. Depressed by his inability to restore the Central to the profitable estate of Cornelius Vanderbilt's day, Young committed suicide. He might be living today if he had only bet on coal. Ironically, if he had lived to head a merger of the C and O. and the B and O., he would have had ample opportunity to make an appeal to the passenger traffic. The B and O., after all, serves some pretty big cities.

My only quarrel with Cyrus Eaton is that his political acumen falls short of his economic foresight. As the owner of acres of iron ore in Ungava, in northern Quebec, Eaton has had the vision of supplying the Krupp works in Germany with enough iron to provide tons of steel for shipment to the Soviet Union. As always, Eaton's economic sense is good: it is only a short haul from ice free ports in Greenland, where iron ore from Quebec might be stored, to the German ports of Hamburg and Bremen. But in hoping that the Soviet Union might become a great peaceful customer of the West, Eaton has let his capitalistic common sense desert him.

The truth is that socialism does not yield the surpluses that are needed to support a nation's foreign trade. Khrushchev is having the devil of a time finding a surplus of goods — oil, gold, and so on — to pay for his needed imports of wheat. There seems to be a vast conspiracy everywhere in the Communist world to keep production down. The peasants aren't working very hard — and more and more manpower has to be diverted from industry merely to feed growing populations.

How is 80-year-old Cyrus Eaton, so shrewd in many respects, going to get around the fact that socialism can't produce a surplus for really profitable foreign deals? The man who was shrewd enough to bet on American coal ought to be sufficiently wise to sell Khrushchev's economic system short.

There's going to be a rough time around the house, men. Not only will many of their wives be aligned against male indulgence in the weed — but the kids are going to start hiding cigarette, cigar or pipe, too. It is too early to predict whether this will result in less smoking or more time spent in clubs and taverns.

Dear Abby: by Abigail Van Buren

Test Her Friendship

DEAR ABBY: I have four children but the little one takes up more of my time than any of the others. You see, she was born with an incomplete stomach (it wasn't fully developed) and she has had six operations already and she isn't even three years old. Well, I have to get up in the night with her many times, and I don't get much sleep. I try to catch a little nap in the afternoons because she sleeps for about an hour then, This friend of mine comes to visit me every afternoon without fail. She is a widow, is lonely and has nowhere else to go. She keeps me from my nap, but I can't tell her not to come or she will be hurt. What can I do?

NO SLEEP

DEAR NO: You are mistaken. A real friend would appreciate your telling her.

Morning Room New Idea for Modern Home

By ELEANOR ROSS

The morning room is a bright new idea that is gaining ground in the modern home. It isn't new really, for a generation or so ago the morning room was a smaller-than-drawing-room social center in which a woman could receive guests.

One interior designer has cleverly updated the idea. To him it is a sitting room, yet it can be a wife's study or office separate from that of her husband.

The space itself can be small. The designer states that he has seen a pleasant work center carved out of a seven-foot-square room containing a small bookcase, desk, desk chair and small, easy chair.

Another interior designer is having a big success converting unused maids' rooms in several old-line New York cooperative houses — built in an era when sleep-in domestic help was part of gracious living.

One good way to furnish a room of this type is with walnut office furniture in a style that is suitable for the home. Any one of a variety of furniture arrangements can be created within a small space.

Furnishings may be few, but they should have quality and beauty, reflect taste and order.

Good lighting, attractive accessories and fabrics of character also are necessary in creating a room of functional beauty.

Home fashion observers who hail the idea of a morning room also cite the usefulness here of walnut stacking units.

If the room lacks a closet, an armoire can be incorporated in such a stacking arrangement. In that case, the area can double as a dressing room for a part-time maid, can serve as a sewing center complete with storage for the dressmaker dummy or can even be pressed into service as a guest room.

Often desk and bookshelves alone will furnish a work center. In a few morning hours the homemaker can do her budgeting, plan grocery lists and menus, balance the checkbook, answer correspondents and arrange the week's activities with all pertinent records at hand.

Even a large pantry in an old house can take on new life as a "morning room."

Of you can adapt the idea to fit a corner of a large kitchen or family room.

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow with an 18-year-old daughter. She works with a woman who has a shrimp for a son. He is 22. This woman influenced my daughter to start going with her son because a girl had just thrown him over and he was supposed to be all broken up. Well, before I knew it my daughter was wearing a used engagement ring and now they are talking marriage. When I told her not to be in such a hurry, the boy's mother cinched the deal by getting my daughter to move out of the house and move in with them. So now I am alone and have nothing to say. My daughter never had a boy friend before this one and won't listen to anyone. What can I do?

ON THE OUTSIDE

DEAR ON: Your daughter is of age and there is nothing you can do. Ask her, calmly and without anger, to come home. And then attempt to persuade her to give more thought to this marriage.

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I dine out often. She likes a second cup of coffee. When I ask the waitress for more coffee, she brings the pot over and starts to pour the coffee into the first cup. So then I say, "Please bring the lady a CLEAN cup," and she gives me a dirty look and says, "The lady HAS a clean cup. Nobody else used it." I am always polite, I tip well and never demand any special service, so what do I pay to a waitress who gives me a sarcastic answer like this?

A MAN IN MANHATTAN
DEAR MAN: When requesting a second cup, say, "Please bring the lady a FRESH cup of coffee." And if the waitress is also fresh, you should see the manager.

Shocknessy Wins Legal Argument

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — James W. Shocknessy, expediter for completion of Ohio's North-South Freeway (Interstate 71), has received legal support in his fight to speed construction of a four-mile stretch through the Strongsville suburb of Cleveland.

Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe advised Highway Director P.E. Masheter Thursday he can take bids and award contracts at once.

Saxbe's opinion noted that the superhighway project can proceed without hindrance.

That vindicates Shocknessy, who also is Ohio Turnpike Commission chairman, had written Masheter in the "sincere hope" the $5.2 million contract would not be let until all right of way and relocation were cleared.

The letter triggered the Shocknessy threat. Stock said his intent was only to avoid claims against the state.

'Y' Has Answers to 'Hard' Questions about Religion

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

People today ask hard questions about religion. The Young Men's Christian Association tries to provide some straight answers.

Among topics it takes up:
"What psychology says about religion; what archeology says about the Bible; the art of Christian doubt; evidence of eternity; what Christianity says about sex, love and marriage; why he lieve in God?"

These are among scores of titles in the Y's book department, Association Press, world's largest nonprofit, nondenominational publishing house.

Since it is not controlled by any single church, it can deal with religious issues on a broadly nondenominational basis. And it can tackle questions that may get bypassed in regular ecclesiastical channels.

"It is unique in its development of reading material directed toward youth and laymen," says the Rev. Dr. Stanley I.
Stuber of Jefferson City, Mo., its new director.

He takes over in January from James Rietmulder, who is resigning after 11 years to become executive vice president of the Stackpole Co., a book publisher with headquarters in Harrington, Pa.

The YMCA a 120-year-old in-terdenominational organization with branches in 83 countries, started its unusual "ministry in print" in 1907.

In recent years, Rietmulder has led in its expansion into a wide-ranging operation, issuing candid interchurch studies on various issues, but concentrating mainly on practical religious problems.

The main concern, Rietmulder says, is "with the place of religion in everyday life" and with "helping people to find answers to their ethical and moral problems."

Scholars and leaders of virtually every major denomination are among the Y's stable of writers. Besides turning out material for adults, it also zelores in on teen-agers with special "teen-age" numbers.

The department issues an average 50 to 60 new titles a year both as hard-bound volumes and paperback books. Its gross volume exceeds $1 million annually.

In resigning, Rietmulder said
"the health of an operation like this and of whoever is at its helm requires change."

Dr. Stuber has been executive director of the Missouri Council of Churches, and was a guest-observer at the 1962 and 1963 sessions of the Vatican Ecumenical Council.

An American Baptist, he said he saw the Y's publishing arm as a means for making the Christian causes of church unity, racial understanding, world peace and Christian moral standards in sex and family life "understandable and acceptable to youth and laymen."

The Atlantic hurricane, which occurs seven to eight times a year, is not as concentrated as a tornado. But it packs a punch estimated as the equivalent of 500,000 atomic bombs of the type dropped on Nagasaki in World War II.

Local Baha'i Group Lists Weekly Thought

The following is from Baha'i teachings: "The Baha'i Faith is simply a continuation of the permeating power of the Christ spirit with a message of unity for the world of today and a revealed plan to meet the needs of this century. A pattern is being built embracing the entire earth, its continents and islands. All Baha'is are part of that pattern. "The fundamental truths of all religions as given out in their purity by each Prophet of God, are ac-knowledgeed by the Baha'i Faith.
Thus the faith draws into its fold members of all races, classes and religions, making it truly a world religion. Its followers believe that this broad basis of understanding makes possible the fulfillment of man's age-long dream of world peace."

On the holy night, the Christ child was born to an unknown carpenter and his wife in Bethlehem.

No palace physician attended the Prince of Peace — perhaps a mid-wife or a serving maid.

No fine linens were prepared for the mother; no crib for the Babe—just the straw and the manger were theirs.

No royal salute was fired to announce His arrival — only the braying of the animals in their stalls was heard.

Never was royalty greeted with less pomp and circumstance.

Why? Because man could not raise himself to God!

So God sent His Son to light up our hearts and minds with His Divine Presence.

His living Spirit brightened the most ordinary and commonplace tasks of the day.

If He could so hallow that stable, can He not hallow our homes, our places of work, the whole of our lives?

Of course! Consider again and again the miracle of His birth. Be in church on Christmas to welcome anew the Christ child in your heart.

AP Religion Writer

People today ask hard questions about religion. The Young Men's Christian Association tries to provide some straight answers.

Among topics it takes up: "What psychology says about religion; what archeology says about the Bible; the art of Christian doubt; evidence of eternity; what Christianity says about sex, love and marriage; why believe in God?"

These are among scores of titles in the Y's book department, Association Press, world's largest nonprofit, nondenominational publishing house.

Since it is not controlled by any single church, it can deal with religious issues on a broadly nondenominational basis. And it can tackle questions that may get bypassed in regular ecclesiastical channels.

"It is unique in its development of reading material directed toward youth and laymen," says the Rev. Dr. Stanley I. Stuber of Jefferson City, Mo., its new director.

He takes over in January from James Rietmulder, who is resigning after 11 years to become executive vice president of the Stackpole Co., a book publisher with headquarters in Harrisburg, Pa.

The YMCA a 120-year-old interdenominational organization with branches in 83 countries, started its unusual "ministry in print" in 1907.

In recent years, Rietmulder has led in its expansion into a wide-ranging operation, issuing candid interchurch studies on various issues, but concentrating mainly on practical religious problems.

The main concern, Rietmulder says, is "with the place of religion in everyday life" and with "helping people to find answers to their ethical and moral problems."

Scholars and leaders of virtually every major denomination are among the Y's stable of writers. Besides turning out material for adults, it also zeroes in on teen-agers with special "teen-age" numbers.

The department issues an average 50 to 60 new titles a year both as hard-bound volumes and paperback books. Its gross volume exceeds $1 million annually.

In resigning, Rietmulder said "the health of an operation like this and of whoever is at its helm requires change."

Dr. Stuber has been executive director of the Missouri Council of Churches, and was a guest-observer at the 1962 and 1963 sessions of the Vatican Ecumenical Council.

An American Baptist, he said he saw the Y's publishing arm as a means for making the Christian causes of church unity, racial understanding, world peace and Christian moral standards in sex and family life "understandable and acceptable to youth and laymen."

The Atlantic hurricane, which occurs seven to eight times a year, is not as concentrated as a tornado. But it packs a punch estimated as the equivalent of 500,000 atomic bombs of the type dropped on Nagasaki in World War II.

Born to Make Men Free

THE THREE-FOLD NEW TESTAMENT WITNESS TO
THE BIRTH OF GOD'S SON

Scripture—Luke 2:1-20; Galatians 3:1-4.

By R. H. RAMSEY
ST. LUKE'S account of the birth of Jesus is worth meditating upon, for, in every way, His birth was different from that of anyone else in history.

First there was the imperial decree that a census be taken throughout the entire Roman world. Because it came at a time when Judea was still a kingdom, this census was taken after the Jewish method which required the head of each household to report, with his family, to his ancestral home. Joseph, being a descendant of Israel's King David, reported to Bethlehem, the original home of David. Thus the holy family was compelled to make the ninety-five mile journey from Nazareth just at the time when Mary would give birth to her Babe.

Luke, a physician, records the almost pathetic circumstances surrounding the birth of the Son of God. Certainly there was nothing miraculous in the birth they found the Child, they fell down and worshipped Him, and made known everything the Heavenly messenger had told them of Him.

We find our third New Testament witness to the birth of God's Son in Paul's letter to the Galatians. Here he upbraids them for their changeableness and acceptance of a mixed Gospel of faith and law, asking whether they received the Holy Spirit through law or faith. He reminds them that while law makes them conscious of their sin and need of Christ, it will be their faith and acceptance of Christ that will bring them the salvation promised them as heirs of Abraham. (Galatians 3:1-29).

Chapter 4, verses 1-7 bring out the fact that when the time ordained by God for the Mes-siah's coming had arrived, he would "send forth His Son, made of a woman, (note how this Messianic statement carefully excludes human paternity)

Itself. Its details reveal loneliness and poverty. Even the world about was ignorant of what was happening until the angel appeared to the shepherds, bearing tidings of the birth in Bethlehem, hailing the child as a Saviour and naming him Christ the Lord. (Luke 2:7-12). No doubt this divine message was given to the shepherds—rather than to the scholars and religious leaders of the day—because these simple folk would more readily believe it.

It is important to note that when the shepherds, believing in the prophecy of Micah, (Micah 5:2) had heard the message of the angel, they acted upon it immediately, without debate, and went to Bethlehem to seek out the Child. Now, in a town the size of Bethlehem, there might well be more than one baby, but there could only be one "wrapped in swaddling clothes and lying in a manger," the sign the angel had told them to look for. (Luke 2:12). When

Santa and the Haunted House

By LUCRECE BEALE

Synopsis: Nog, as Santa Claus, went off to Santa Land to prepare a dreadful Christmas. The children rushed to help Santa, now an old woman, and Jeremy decided the charm should be broken.

CHAPTER 16 VISIT TO THE FAIRY QUEEN

Santa took Jeremy's small hand in his shaking fingers.
"Only the Queen Fairy can break the charm," he said.
"And Fairyland is far away. I am too decrepit to get there."
"C-could I get there?" asked Jeremy.

"You can," said Santa. "If you believe you can."
"Oh, I do!" declared Jeremy.
"I do too!" exclaimed Sissy.
"Me, too," chimed in Miss Jo.

"Then go," said Santa. "Go as fast as you can to the very end of Burning Tree Road. Turn left on Little Branch Trail, then you come to the fork, take three giant steps down Red Cow Path. There you will find a chestnut tree. Where the second branch meets the trunk there is a hole and in the hole there is a bottle. Take one sip each from the bottle."

"Is that all?" asked Jeremy.
"That is all. Only hurry, for time is very short."

The children raced away and did all they had been told. But when they came at last to the chestnut tree the lowest branch was too high for Jeremy to reach.

He scrambled up the trunk but just as he was about to reach the branch he lost his grip and crashed to the ground, cutting his lip and knocking out a tooth.

He put the tooth in his pocket and got on his hands and knees. "Climb on my back," he told Sissy. Sissy did and then until she was high enough to reach the first branch. She got to the second branch and there was a hole where it joined the trunk and in the hole was a tiny blue bottle.

She climbed down with the bottle and all three children took a sip from it. Hardly had they swallowed than they fell on the ground in a heap and went fast asleep.

When they awoke they were in a marble palace. The floors were covered with gold carpet.
Columns, so big three people couldn't put their arms around them, stretched to a ceiling that seemed half a mile away.
Wreaths of holly decorated the walls and there was a giant Christmas tree, glittering with stars, in the center of the room. A 50-piece orchestra sat at the side of the room. As the children gazed in wonder, the orchestra struck up and a host of fairy creatures strolled into the room and began to dance.

The most beautiful creature of all clapped her hands. The music stopped and the beautiful one said, "It is now past 12 and Christmas Eve. I, the Fairy Queen declare that we shall feast and dance for two whole days and nights and this will be the gayest Christmas ever!"

Everyone cheered but before the music could start again Jeremy plunged through the crowd.
"Oh, your majesty, you've got to do something quickly!" he cried.

The Queen looked at him in astonishment as he blurted out the whole story of how Nog was Santa now and Santa was an old woman in the Haunted House and it was up to the Queen to break the charm.

"You must break it right away," finished Jeremy, "or it will be too late."

The Queen turned pale and her hands fluttered wildly.

"Yes, Yes," she moaned. "But there are three things I must have to break the charm: something gold, something pearl and something invisible."

"Done," said the Prince at her side. "There are plenty such things around."

"But you see," said the Queen. "They must be real and not things from fairyland at all."

"Then we are lost," cried the

2 Ohio Cons Give Leg Bone to Girl

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Two Ohio Penitentiary inmates started on the road to recovery today following surgery for removal of 10-inch long sections of shin bone needed to help a 19-year-old suburban Bexley girl walk.

The surgery was performed in the prison hospital Wednesday. It is not yet known when the two strips of healthy bone will be placed in the girl's right leg, stunted by polio when she was 7 years old.

The inmates, Melvin Schrader, 21, and Leroy Smedley, 23, were selected from among 233 inmates who volunteered to undergo the painful surgery and a long period of recovery to help the girl.

Schrad-er is serving a life sentence for first-degree murder from Stark County. Smedley is serving a 10-to-25 year term for armed robbery from Richland County.

The inmates are expected to spend about two weeks in the hospital. It will be another several months before they have completely recovered from the surgery, from which they will carry scars the rest of their lives.

Born to Make Men Free

 THE BIRTH OF GOD'S SON

By R. H. RAMSEY

ST. LUKE'S account of the birth of Jesus is worth meditating upon, for, in every way, His birth was different from that of anyone else in history. First there was the imperial decree that a census be taken throughout the entire Roman world. Because it came at a time when Judea was still a kingdom, this census was taken after the Jewish method which required the head of each household to report, with his family, to his ancestral home. Joseph, being a descendant of Israel's King David, reported to Bethlehem, the original home of David. Thus the holy family was compelled to make the ninety-five mile journey from Nazareth just at the time when Mary would give birth to her Babe.

Luke, a physician, records the almost pathetic circumstances surrounding the birth of the Son of God. Certainly there was nothing miraculous in the birth itself. Its details reveal loneliness and poverty. Even the world about was ignorant of what was happening until the angel appeared to the shepherds, bearing tidings of the birth in Bethlehem, hailing the child as a Saviour and naming him Christ the Lord. Santa and the Haunted House

By LUCRECE BEALE

Synopsis: Nog, as Santa Claus, went off to Santa Land to prepare a dreadful Christmas. The children rushed to help Santa, now an old woman, and Jeremy decided the charm should be broken.

CHAPTER 16 VISIT TO THE FAIRY QUEEN

Santa took Jeremy's small hand in his shaking fingers. "Only the Queen Fairy can break the charm," he said. "And Fairyland is far away. I am too decrepit to get there." "Could I get there?" asked Jeremy.

"You can," said Santa, "If you believe you can." "Oh, I do!" declared Jeremy. "I do too!" exclaimed Sissy. "Me, too," chimed in Miss Jo.

"Then go," said Santa. "Go as fast as you can to the very end of Burning Tree Road. Turn left on Little Branch Trail, then you come to the fork, take three giant steps down Red Cow Path. There you will find a chestnut tree. Where the second branch meets the trunk there is a hole and in the hole there is a bottle. Take one sip each from the bottle."

"Is that all?" asked Jeremy. "That is all. Only hurry, for time is very short."

The children raced away and did all they had been told. But when they came at last to the chestnut tree the lowest branch was too high for Jeremy to reach.

He climbed up the trunk but just as he was about to reach the branch he lost his grip and crashed to the ground, cutting his lip and knocking out a tooth.

He put the tooth in his pocket and got on his hands and knees. "Climb on my back," he told Sissy. Sissy did and then until she was high enough to reach the first branch. She got to the second branch and there was a hole where it joined the trunk and in the hole was a tiny blue bottle.

She climbed down with the bottle and all three children took a sip from it. Hardly had they swallowed than they fell on the ground in a heap and went fast asleep.

When they awoke they were in a marble palace. The floors were covered with gold carpet. Columns, so big three people couldn't put their arms around them, stretched to a ceiling that seemed half a mile away. Wreaths of holly decorated the walls and there was a giant Christmas tree, glittering with stars, in the center of the room. A 50-piece orchestra sat at the side of the room. As the children gazed in wonder, the orchestra struck up and a host ENNEBEC, S.D. (AP)—Operations were under way today to rescue more than 120 head of cattle stranded in the Missouri River west of this central South Dakota community.

The cattle, reported standing chest deep in the icy stream, were isolated by rising waters of the Big Bend Reservoir. A sheet of ice lay between the animals and the shoreline, 200 yards away.

of fairy creatures strolled into the room and began to dance. The most beautiful creature of all clapped her hands. The music stopped and the beautiful one said, "It is now past 12 and Christmas Eve. I, the Fairy Queen declare that we shall feast and dance for two whole days and nights and this will be the gayest Christmas ever!"

Everyone cheered but before the music could start again Jeremy plunged through the crowd. "Oh, your majesty, you've got to do something quickly!" he cried.

The Queen looked at him in astonishment as he blurted out the whole story of how Nog was Santa now and Santa was an old woman in the Haunted House and it was up to the Queen to break the charm.

"You must break it right away," finished Jeremy, "or it will be too late."

The Queen turned pale and her hands fluttered wildly. "Yes, Yes," she moaned. "But there are three things I must have to break the charm: something gold, something pearl and something invisible."

"Done," said the Prince at her side. "There are plenty such things around."

"But you see," said the Queen. "They must be real and not things from fairyland at all."

"Then we are lost," cried the Prince. "For there is not time to search these things down."

Then all the fairy creatures sorrowed and the Queen was the most sorrowful of all.

Hope Is Held For Future of Ottawa Depot

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio officials trying to help Ottawa County recoup from the upcoming federal curtailment of the Erie Defense Depot could point about 30 miles to the west, in Wood County, today to show that there could be a silver lining.

According to the Ohio Department of Development, big things may be shaping up at the former Rossford Army Depot which was closed down last June.

The department reported last Thursday night that conversion of the military installation to industrial use could be under way in a short time.

The Wood County Community Improvement Corp., working with the Development Department on disposition of the Rossford depot, has five bidders for the 508 acres up for sale at the 882-acre complex.

Each met the minimum price of $1,693,000 set by the General Services Administration, the department said, and the sale—expected to be consummated by Jan. 8—will be to the bidder showing the best prospects for promoting economic development of the area.

The would-be purchasers include two big canned-foods firms, Hunt Foods & Industries, Fullerton, Calif., and Stokely-Van Camp, Indianapolis. The Erie depot, like Rossford, is in the heart of the Northwest Ohio canning country.

Other bidders include John W. Galbreath, the Columbus developer behind some of the biggest building projects in the nation; Fredel Corp. of Columbus, and Max Wyant, Akron.

Hunt officials, including Executive Vice President Irving Goldseder, already have conferred with Gov. James A. Rhodes. Development Director George Wilson and other state and Wood County officials in Columbus. Wilson said representatives of the other bidders also will be conferring with the Wood County improvement group and state officials within the next two weeks.

Goldseder was quoted as saying that Hunt Foods' preliminary plans call for use of two or three of the Rossford warehouses for processing operations which would employ some 300 workers.

He told Rhodes, "It is our desire, if conditions can be worked out, to ultimately develop the new installation into the company's Midwestern distribution center."

"If that matures, employment probably will reach 1,000 people."

The Rossford announcement came at about the time Rhodes assured a Port Clinton-Oak Harbor area delegation concerned about the Erie depot that the state plans fast, concerted action in their area's behalf.

Rhodes said he and a score of aides will be in Port Clinton Monday for an on-the-spot evaluation of the situation involving loss of about 1,500 civilian jobs. He asked the delegation to round up all local leaders they could for a meeting toward developing a job program.

The governor said he would bring along Development Department personnel who are in contact with industrialists seeking sites so they can size up facilities in the area. He said Highway Director P.E. Masheter also would be in the group, to discuss plans for an Ohio 2 bypass around Sandusky and Port Clinton.

Asst. Development Director F.P. Neuenschwander called the 1,300-acre Erie depot ideal for an industrial park "to provide more employment than is there now."

GETS MONEY BELT FOR LEG—His father, Clyde Gray Jr., looks on as Berry Gray, 11, gets a big kiss from his mother, after the boy received a 100-foot, plastic, adhesive "money belt" at Geisinger Medical Center in Danville, Pa. The belt, with more than $300 in coins and bills, was presented by employees of the Danville Works of Thompson Ramo Woolridge to help pay for an artificial leg for Berry, whose right leg was amputated above the knee after it became afflicted with bone cancer.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
WASHINGTON (AP) — In the news from Washington:

CANCELLED: The United States is dropping plans to send former Secretary of State Dean Acheson to Cambodia on a conciliation mission.

Conditions laid down by Cambodian Prince Norodom Sihanouk made the trip impossible, State Department officials said Thursday.

The net result is a further setback to already teetering U.S. Cambodian relations.

BAKER: Senate investigators are examining subpoenaed bank records in an attempt to determine how much wealth Robert G. Baker amassed while he was secretary to the Senate's Democratic majority.

The Rules Committee investigators are also examining statements filed by Baker with the Federal Housing Administration and the Small Business Administration in connection with loan applications, it was revealed Thursday by Lennox P. McLeod, special counsel to the committee.

DRAFT: The Army will draft 12,000 men in February, the smallest monthly quota in six months and 4,000 below the January call, the Defense Department said Thursday.

BACK HOME: Secretary of State Dean Rusk has returned from the NATO ministerial conference in Paris, declaring there is no basic change in U.S. policy on summit meetings and on Communist China.

The United States would encourage a summit conference only if preliminary talks seem to warrant such a meeting, he told newsmen who met him at the airport Thursday night.

HOME AGAIN: "The Hill is my home," said President Johnson Thursday night as he turned up on Capitol Hill to attend a surprise reception and dinner in honor of Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield of Montana.

Johnson passed up dinner, but he stayed long enough—three-quarters of an hour—to tell his former Democratic colleagues that service in the Senate was the "most pleasant experience of my life."

Sidney Bank Thug Faces New Charges

SIDNEY, Ohio (AP)—A 33-year-old housing contractor-builder continued recuperating from a shotgun injury today with the unhappy prospect of facing a variety of charges arising out of a thwarted bank robbery.

Lloyd Blackford of Sidney was lying flat on his back in Wilson Memorial Hospital Thursday when U.S. Commissioner Robert Snell read charges against him of bank robbery, using a weapon to commit a robbery and taking a hostage.

Snell hardly had finished with the informal arraignment when Sidney Police Chief John Warner announced that local authorities have charged Blackford with assault with intent to kill and auto theft.

Blackford underwent a minor operation Wednesday to remove a shotgun pellet received after the robbery at a branch of the First National Exchange Bank Tuesday.

He was ordered held under $100,000 bond pending removal to Dayton and eventual formal arraignment in U.S. District Court there when his condition permits. Authorities think his condition will permit transfer to the Montgomery County jail in Dayton in a few days.

the last year the smaller U.S. firms have increasingly got into the business of establishing plants abroad or licensing foreigners to produce American type products.

Uneasiness in some countries over the American invasion has complicated the trade conflicts facing a major showdown next year in 53-nation tariff negotiations. And the U.S. government has worried a bit about Yankee dollars flowing overseas and has been emphasizing its drive to get smaller firms to help swell the total of exports made at home.

But the number of American firms seeking lucrative markets abroad by getting right on the scene apparently still is on the increase. And a survey of new foreign activity this year shows 43 per cent of it accounted for by U.S. companies with annual sales under $50 million.

A slight rise in licensing is reported. But most of the U.S. companies seek either complete ownership or a majority interest in the new projects abroad.

In the first half of 1963 U.S. companies established 348 new foreign business units, more than in any previous half year period since the survey was started July 1, 1960, by the management consultant firm of Booz, Allen & Hamilton.

In the entire three-year period 1,527 companies set up 3,418 new foreign activities — 53 per cent in new business establishments, 26 per cent in licensing and 21 per cent in expanding existing units.

More than half of this activity was in six nations: Britain 14 per cent, Canada 10 per cent, Japan 9 per cent, West Germany and France 7 per cent each, and Italy 6 per cent.

And seven American states have the home offices of almost three fourths of the companies: New York 30 per cent; Illinois 11 per cent, Ohio 9 per cent, Pennsylvania and California 8 per cent each, Michigan 6 per cent, and New Jersey 4 per cent.

The increase noted both last year and this in the number of smaller firms entering the foreign field while activities of larger U.S. firms were tapering off helps explain Washington and European predictions that total dollar investment abroad will show only a slight gain this year when compared with the big rush in such activity in the late 1950s through 1961.

Companies investing in foreign plants stress that returns will help offset the drain of U.S. dollars that reached a climax in 1960 and still troubles the United States with an imbalance of payments in world financial dealings.

Best of Abby For Last Year

DEAR ABBY: My problem is an over-attachment husband. When he leaves for work, he kisses me. When he comes home he kisses me. If we should meet anywhere else, he hugs and kisses me. He doesn't care whether we are alone or not. He is always telling me how nice I look and other such compliments. He can't keep his inmost thoughts to himself. Sometimes it is very embarrassing. Please understand, I really love my husband, but his conduct is a little embarrassing. How can I discourage him a little without discouraging him altogether?

BLOSSOM: Are you bragging or complaining? Search your soul. Surely you must have a bigger problem.

DEAR ABBY: This is regarding that woman whose husband was unfaithful and then came crawling back to his wife with promises to "make it up to her". She asked you if she should let her husband share her bedroom again, and you replied with one word, "Yes". Are you crazy or something? Why should the wife take him back? I'd let him sleep out in the doghouse like the dirty dog that he is.

PROUD: And then what would you have? A husband who's provided with an excuse to behave like a dog because he's treated like one. Don't build fences where you can build bridges.

DEAR ABBY: For six years I went with a girl we will call DOLL. I wanted to marry her but she kept putting me off. I had been drinking all this time but with the help of the Lord I quit drinking. I started going with another girl we will call BABY. She loves me and I love her, but not like DOLL. In the meantime, DOLL got herself a new boy friend who drinks more than I did. She keeps saying she is going to break up with him and go back with me but she is sure taking her sweet time. I told DOLL I would give her 30 days to make up her mind and if she didn't marry me I'd marry BABY. Is 30 days long enough?

JERRY: A man who would just as soon marry one girl as another is not ready for marriage. There are lots of DOLLS and BABYS around. Stay single until you are sure which one you want. You might run into a SWEETIE.

DEAR ABBY: The other day my husband and I received an invitation to attend a party at the home of some friends. They said, "Bring your own bottle and we will fix a midnight supper for $2 a couple."

We couldn't go because we had already made other plans, but we were shocked. We are all young-marrieds in our late twenties and most of us are not well-to-do, but when we invite people to our home we expect to feed them. Is this something new.

PUZZLED: "BOY" (bring your own bottle) parties are not uncommon among young marrieds but in my opinion that doesn't make it right. The $2 supper is pure chintz — and I don't mean a slipcover.

DEAR ABBY: I am a man who has been retired for exactly four months. I have worked hard since the age of 14 and have earned the rest. My wife isn't very happy about it and has given me the nickname of "Sitting Bull." Will you put and don't like her calling me "Sitting Bull." Will you put this in your column? We both read it. Maybe she'll take the hint and cut it out.

SITTING BULL: DEAR SITTING: Yours is a noble nickname. Another retired gentleman wrote to tell me that his wife had nicknamed him "Honeydew". He said every two minutes she'd say, "Honeydew this" and "Honeydew that." Wanna trade?

DEAR ABBY: When I married "M" nine years ago, his mother stood right there at the wedding and cried as though a judge had just sentenced her son to hang. I should have known then that she would never "love me like a daughter," although she used that phrase often enough. Fortunately my husband's boss transferred us out of town soon after we were married. His mother came to visit us, but up until this year we never went to visit her. When we did, she put our two young sons in a large double bed, while my husband and I were given two Army cots placed at a 90-degree angle in a room with no door! Any advice?

"LIKE A DAUGHTER": DEAR LIKE: Yes, don't go mountain-climbing with her.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "FOOL IN PARADISE": It wasn't the fruit on the tree, it was the pair on the ground that caused all the trouble. Your "paradise" is almost lost.

TO "ON THE VINE": You'll enjoy life more if you get off the grape.

TO MARTY: If at first you don't succeed, you're running about average.

TO "H": Do not discard in one angry moment a friendship which has taken a lifetime to cultivate. A stone is many years becoming a ruby. Take care that you do not destroy it hastily.

TO ALABAMA: Because many sin more than they suffer, some must suffer more than they sin.

How Weather Looks Today

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Official Weather Bureau Summary of Ohio's weather:

There were no indications of any immediate relief from the cold wave as northerly winds today through Saturday and possibly Sunday will reach deep into Canada and continue to spill fresh arctic air into the state.

OHIO FIVE DAY FORECASTS: NORTHERN OHIO — Temperatures will average 20 to 25 degrees below normal. Normal high 34-37, normal low 19 - 24. Bitterly cold over weekend, moderating slowly toward midweek, but temperatures still remaining well on cold side. Precipitation will average about one-fourth inch melted in daily snow flurries but heavier amounts locally near Lake Erie.

SOUTHERN & CENTRAL OHIO: Temperatures will average about 20 degrees below normal. Normal high 37-45, normal low 22-27. Precipitation will average about one-fourth inch along with a brief warming trend about midweek.

TO MURIEL: Tell him to take up bowling. That way he can build himself up while knocking things down.

TO "D": Once you have forgiven your husband, do not reheat his sins for breakfast.

TO SUSPICIOUS BUT NEEDS PROOF: If you found YOUR razor set, it must have been a pretty close shave for some gay blade. Why don't you ask your wife?

'Safest' States Push for Better Marks

NEW YORK (AP) — Rhode Island, Hawaii, Connecticut and Massachusetts boast the best records among the states in holding down auto deaths. How do they do it?

While many factors are involved, an Associated Press survey disclosed, one stood out in each of the states: an unceasing effort of officialdom to improve traffic safety records.

National Safety Council figures show that Rhode Island, the smallest state, had the nation's lowest auto fatality rate last year — 9.9 per 100,000 population.

Then came Hawaii, 12.3 deaths; Connecticut, 12.4; and Massachusetts, 13.6.

The rate for the country was 22 per 100,000.

"We're not accepting any laurels," said Rhode Island Gov. John H. Chafee. "We've still got a long way to go."

Charles W. Shields Jr., executive secretary of the governor's council on highway safety, said Rhode Island has certain factors working in its favor.

Half of the state is heavily urbanized, with little high-speed traffic. Expressways in urban areas are new, with all the safety advantages of modern engineering.

The rural roads have few long, monotonous straight stretches where drivers are likely to lose perspective or fall asleep.

An incentive program to encourage safe driving is used by the state's second largest city, Hilo, on the island of Hawaii.

"If there are no traffic fatalities for 75 days, we give the motorists a reward by closing the parking meters for a day," said Deputy Police Chief George Martin.

Hawaii is not faced with three factors that contribute to many traffic deaths on the mainland — speed, fatigue and the out-of-state driver.

Hawaii recorded 85 traffic deaths last year. Seventy-one occurred on Oahu, which has 80 per cent of the state's population.

Following are highlights from "Dear Abby" columns which appeared during 1963 in this newspaper:

DEAR ABBY: My problem is an over-attachment to my husband. When he leaves for work, he kisses me. When he comes home he kisses me. If we should meet anywhere else, he "hugs and kisses me." He doesn't care whether we are alone or not. He is always telling me how nice I look and other such compliments. He can't keep his thoughts to himself. Sometimes it is very embarrassing. Please understand, I really love my husband, but his constant "hugs and kisses" are a little without discouraging him altogether?

BLOSSOM
DEAR BLOSSOM: Are you bragging or complaining? Search your soul. Surely you must have a bigger problem.

DEAR ABBY: This is regarding that woman whose husband was unfaithful and then came crawling back to his wife with promises to "make it up to her." She asked you if she should let her husband share her bedroom again, and you replied with one word, "Yes." Are you crazy or something? Why should the wife take him back? I'd let him sleep out in the doghouse like the dirty dog that he is.

PROUD
DEAR PROUD: And then what would you have? A husband who's provided with an excuse to behave like a dog because he's treated like one. Don't build fences where you can build bridges.

DEAR ABBY: For six years I went with a girl we will call DOLL. I wanted to marry her but she kept putting me off. I had been drinking all this time but with the help of the Lord I quit drinking. I started going with another girl we will call BABY. She loves me and I love her, but not like DOLL. In the meantime, DOLL got herself a new boy friend who drinks more than I did. She keeps saying she is going to break up with him and go back with me but she is sure taking her sweet time. I told DOLL I would give her 30 days to make up her mind and if she didn't marry me I'd marry BABY. Is 30 days long enough?

JERRY
DEAR JERRY: A man who would just as soon marry one girl as another is not ready for marriage. There are lots of DOLLS and BABYS around. Stay single until you are sure which one you want. You might run into a SWEETIE.

DEAR ABBY: The other day my husband and I received an invitation to attend a party at the home of some friends. They said, "Bring your own bottle and we will fix a midnight supper for $2 a couple."

We couldn't go because we had already made other plans, but we were shocked. We are all young-marrieds in our late twenties and most of us are not well-to-do, but when we invite people to our home we expect to feed them. Is this something new.

PUZZLED
DEAR PUZZLED: "BOY" (bring your own bottle) parties are not uncommon among young marrieds but in my opinion that doesn't make it right. The $2 supper is pure chintz — and I don't mean a slipcover.

DEAR ABBY: I am a man who has been retired for exactly four months. I have worked hard since the age of 14 and have earned the rest. My wife isn't very happy about it and has given me the nickname of "Sitting Bull." Will you put

and don't like her calling me "Sitting Bull." Will you put this in your column? We both read it. Maybe she'll take the hint and cut it out.

SITTING BULL
DEAR SITTING BULL: Yours is a noble nickname. Another retired gentleman wrote to tell me that his wife had nicknamed him "Honeydew." He said every two minutes she'd say, "Honeydew this" and "Honeydew that." Wanna trade?

DEAR ABBY: When I married "M" nine years ago, his mother stood right there at the wedding and cried as though a judge had just sentenced her son to hang. I should have known then that she would never "love me like a daughter," although she used that phrase often enough. Fortunately my husband's boss transferred us out of town soon after we were married. His mother came to visit us, but up until this year we never went to visit her. When we did, she put our two young sons in a large double bed, while my husband and I were given two Army cots placed at a 90-degree angle in a room with no door! Any advice?

"LIKE A DAUGHTER"
DEAR LIKE: Yes, don't go mountain-climbing with her.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "FOOL IN PARADISE": It wasn't the fruit on the tree, it was the pair on the ground that caused all the trouble. Your "paradise" is almost lost.

TO "ON THE VINE": You'll enjoy life more if you get off the grape.

TO MARTY: If at first you don't succeed, you're running about average.

TO "H": Do not discard in one angry moment a friendship which has taken a lifetime to cultivate. A stone is many years becoming a ruby. Take care that you do not destroy it hastily.

TO ALABAMA: Because many sin more than they suffer, some must suffer more than they sin.

How Weather Looks Today

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Official Weather Bureau Summary of Ohio's weather:

The bitterly cold air already covering Ohio Thursday was reinforced by a fresh outbreak of arctic air overnight. Temperatures this morning dropped below zero in almost every community.

Precipitation was light and restricted to occasional snow flurries near Lake Erie. Elsewhere, under clear skies, ice crystals developed.

There were no indications of any immediate relief from the cold wave as northerly winds today through Saturday and possibly Sunday will reach deep into Canada and continue to spill fresh arctic air into the state.

Dry conditions are forecast today through Saturday with the exception of snow flurries in the northeast snow belt.

OHIO FIVE DAY FORECASTS
NORTHERN OHIO—Temperatures will average 20 to 25 degrees below normal. Normal high 34-37, normal low 19-24. Bitterly cold over weekend, moderating slowly toward midweek, but temperatures still remaining well on cold side. Precipitation will average about one-fourth inch melted in daily snow flurries but heavier amounts locally near Lake Erie.

SOUTHERN & CENTRAL OHIO—Temperatures will average about 20 degrees below normal. Normal high 37-45, normal low 22-27. Precipitation will average about one-fourth inch along with a brief warming trend about midweek.

'Safest' States Push for Better Marks

NEW YORK (AP) — Rhode Island, Hawaii, Connecticut and Massachusetts boast the best records among the states in holding down auto deaths. How do they do it?

While many factors are involved, an Associated Press survey disclosed, one stood out in each of the states: an unceasing effort of officialdom to improve traffic safety records.

National Safety Council figures show that Rhode Island, the smallest state, had the nation's lowest auto fatality rate last year — 9.9 per 100,000 population.

Then came Hawaii, 12.3 deaths; Connecticut, 12.4; and Massachusetts, 13.6.

The rate for the country was 22 per 100,000.

"We're not accepting any laurels," said Rhode Island Gov. John H. Chafee. "We've still got a long way to go."

Charles W. Shields Jr., executive secretary of the governor's council on highway safety, said Rhode Island has certain factors working in its favor.

Half of the state is heavily urbanized, with little high-speed traffic. Expressways in urban areas are new, with all the safety advantages of modern engineering.

The state has less through traffic than many others.

The Rhode Island Police executive officer, James A. Iacoi, credits the inauguration of regular speed checks — and the ensuing publicity — with helping combat some of the state's highway problems.

Much of the credit for Hawaii's low traffic toll is given to news media.

"The whole objective is to make the public safety conscious," says Lt. Eugene Fletcher, head of the traffic accident investigation bureau of the Honolulu police.

An incentive program to encourage safe driving is used by the state's second largest city, Hilo, on the island of Hawaii.

"If there are no traffic fatalities for 75 days, we give the motorists a reward by closing the parking meters for a day,"

said Deputy Police Chief George Martin.

Hawaii is not faced with many factors that contribute to traffic deaths on the mainland — speed, fatigue and the out-of-state driver.

The chief state highway engineer, John Myatt, said, "The motorists are familiar with the highways and this is a big point."

"The greatest speed limit on the island of Oahu is 45 miles an hour," he said.

Hawaii recorded 85 traffic deaths last year. Seventy-one occurred on Oahu, which has 80 per cent of the state's population.

Oldest item among the Kennebunkport museum's 80 trolley cars is the "Golden Chariot," which once plied the streets of Montreal to the great delight of Canadian small fry.

Museum Is Filled With Trolley Cars

By STEVE LIBBY
Written Especially for Central Press and This Newspaper
KENNEBUNKPORT, Me. — The snow of Maine's winters is piling high around the world's first and largest collection of trolley cars near here, but come spring, the Seashore Trolley Museum, located in the community where once lived Booth Tarkington and Kenneth Roberts, will again be open for all to enjoy.

For the trolley buff — and there are many — there are all kinds of cars from many vintage: horsecars of the 1880s, birneys, "summer" or "ball park cars," sleek and streamlined subway models and high-speed cross-county interurban speedsters. They came from all over the world, too. From Biddeford, 10 miles to the north, to Australia; from Liverpool's last tram to Italian-made cars; from Canada and across the United States; even from Japan. There are 80 cars in all, enough in quantity and variety to please everyone.

Middle-aged folk who remember when the trolley was king come to visit the museum — and, more often than not, they bring their children with them. It's a real thrill to take a short, scenic ride on the line, both for those old enough to remember when trolleys were an everyday mode of travel and for the youngsters, too. To the juvenile set, the clang-and-rattle is indeed a novelty.

Visitors are given freedom to browse through the cars, rambling through them at will to admire (or remember!) the decor styles of yesteryear.

Tooting whistles or clanging the bells, children find it a rare and unusual experience and re-

A year ago, old "396" of the Boston Elevated Railway became a movie star. She was loaded on a flat-bed truck and hauled to the Boston suburb of Everett, Mass., where she was refurbished, polished and posed before motion picture cameras for "The Cardinal."

The museum was begun 25 years ago when a group of Boston businessmen formed the New England Electric Railway Historical Society by acquiring their first trolley with an "open car" from the discontinued line between Biddeford and Old Orchard Beach.

This small but famous trolley line — it earned fame as "the last of the nickel trolley rides" — later was to supply the museum with a four-wheeled birney acquired by them earlier from the old Portland Street Railway Co. in Maine's largest city. This car, number 615, is still there, along with 79 others.

Members of the society still sneak away from their places of business to work around the old cars, making repairs and otherwise giving vent to their ancient charges. Other volunteers, keeping the trolleys in repair, painting them, or serving as motormen or conductors on the short tours offered by the museum, are former trolley men from such nearby communities as Portland, Lewiston and Sanford.

One young couple even spent their honeymoon working at the museum.

There's no admission charge to the outdoor display area, but passengers may make a donation if they ride on the trolleys or, if they wish, to contribute to the repair and refurbishing work done on the trolleys.

It's open daily during the summer months, on Highway 110, a mile to the east of U.S. Highway 1, three miles north of Kennebunkport.

Four Gospels of Christmas

Apostle John Had Understanding Of Phenomenon of God's Love

EDITOR'S NOTE — The Apostle John lived what he wrote and was a witness to the last great ministry of Jesus. Last survivor of the 12 disciples, John achieved full understanding of the phenomenon of God's love of man that is the great hope of Christmas. Here, in the last of a series of five articles in his story.

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

The withered old patriarch sat in a stone seat in the courtyard of the academy at Ephesus. He was past 90 years of age, the skin shriveled on his bones and his beard a great cascade of white down his chest.

Yet, as he turned toward the students gathered at his feet, his eyes flashed piercingly and his voice crackled with an iron wisdom.

Only John, among the 12 apostles, still survived. He had come to the winter of his life, yet spring still sparkled in him. His memory swam with keen, rousing images that had sharpened with the years.

"Tell us more, O venerable one, of the manifestation of our Lord."

Looking backward, the old firebrand pillar of the church could see it all more clearly and comprehensively. The many separate threads formed a pattern, a vivid mosaic, and he could read its meaning and import.

He said: "In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God. He was in the beginning with God; all things were made through Him, and without Him was not anything made that was made."

It delves into the taproots and fountainhead of Christ, who is called the expressed "Word" or radiating force of the Almighty. The descriptor, asserts a strange, seldom noted quality about Him, that he coexisted with God always, from before the physical universe, and that He was the outstretching divine arm that created and vitalized all nature.

"In Him was life, and the life was the light of men," John said. But men had strayed from it, even at the outset. "The light shines in the darkness." Yet darkness had become men's condition, despite the innate light.

That, as the aged apostle perceived it, was the backdrop, the shadowy situation before the new day blazed in human history.

Unlike other presentations of the Gospel, John looked behind its bare incidents to its stupendous, animating basis and its sweeping significance. True, it had unfolded among men, yet it had stemmed from beyond the far ramparts of the world.

John omits any reference to Jesus' birth, earthly parentage or infancy. These things had become common knowledge. Instead, out of the distillation of time, reflection and gradually clarifying insights into an overwhelming experience, John had reached an understanding of it, and sought to put in full perspective.

The hot-blooded young John had once urged Jesus to call down fire on an unfriendly village. Again, John had vied for first place in the coming "kingdom." On each occasion, he had been rebuked. He was dubbed a "son of thunder." Yet he was among Jesus' three most beloved confidantes.

Now, nearly 70 years later presumably in the last decade before 100 A.D., the mellowed nonagenarian had assimilated and slowly brought into sharp, graphic outline just what had happened in those stunning days.

Since then, he had undergone severe tests, and had abundant time to meditate, including a lonely period of exile on the barren island of Patmos, to which he had been banished by Roman authorities and where he had produced his mystical book of revelation, or the Apocalypse.

The ecclesia—those called into faith — remained under harsh strictures, suffering frequent violence. They were widely reviled as atheists because they refused to do homage at state altars. The brutal Domitian reigned as Roman emperor, unleashing sporadic persecutions.

The recurrent waves of oppression, against both Christians and Jews, had gone on since Christ's coming. Revolutionary Israel had been crushed in blood by Roman legions in 70 A.D., never to be a nation again until 1948.

Still, Christianity spread invincibly and a numerous, strong community persisted in Ephesus, capital of Asia Province, with its bustling raucous harbor, its steaming baths, its ornate temple to the mother goddess Diana, a site of wild brawling since no arrest could be made within a bowshot of it.

The church grew in that environment, and apparently even developed a teaching cadre centered around the frail, old Apostle John. Ancient references to the "John" there sometimes are ambiguous, and scholars at one time tended to date his gospel later, by other authorship, but more modern findings support the early tradition.

In his prologue, whether written by himself or dictated to a penman, John sums up the entire case of the divine thrust to mankind, and puts it in total context. The rest of the book is a recital of specific evidence to support the opening conclusion.

John uses simple words and short sentences, almost like an ancient Hemingway, yet they are charged with lofty and powerful content. He offers no chronological account, but rather an array of selected, significant episodes, which stood out in his memory. He deals with only 20 days of Jesus' 1,000-day ministry. Yet the scenes abound with minute, close-up detail.

But what was the meaning of it all? Who was Christ? Where did He come from? And why? John starts out with a considered assessment. Always, he says, the light has shined "in the darkness, and the darkness has not overcome it."

But because of men's loss of contact with it and loss of their elemental bearings, "the true light that lightens every man was coming into the world." Even before that, "He was in the world, and the world was made through Him, yet the world knew him not."

Then came the climax, the fuller light, the most eloquent utterance of God:

"The Word became flesh and dwelt among us, full of grace and truth."

That was, and is, the phenomenon of Christmas. That is the sublime and amazing reach of God for man. The working extension of Himself, the eternal conveyor of God's thought and energy took on the bones, blood, travail and frailties of man in order to stick with men, and by them, even in their defection.

It was, as John finally understood, love incarnate, love bursting forth in physical creaturehood, in behalf of all humanity. It was not some mystical spiritual action, as the learned Greeks in those days regarded the "Word" of God, but on the contrary, a plainly human, personal earthly event, showing God's interest in the very midst of the material world.

John, out of his long brooding, had achieved a crisp grasp of the whole transaction. He offered no theological speculation about it, but only the inescapable, full-blown reaction of a person to a person. "We have beheld His glory as the only Son from the Father. No one has ever seen God; the only Son, who is in the bosom of the Father, He has made Him known."

John did not try to enumerate every part of the story. If everything Jesus did were "to be written, I suppose that the world itself could not contain the books that would be written," John's account concludes.

State Aides Get No Pay For Funeral

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Some 8,000 state employees on an hourly pay basis will have to make up the time they were off Nov. 25, the day of the late President John F. Kennedy's funeral, if they expect to be paid for it.

State Auditor Roger W. Tracy has held that state laws governing holiday pay for hourly employees did not cover Gov. James A. Rhodes' proclamation declaring Nov. 25 as a day of mourning and that all state offices be closed.

Employees paid on a monthly basis were not affected, but another law covers the hourly-paid employees, most of whom are in the highway, mental hygiene and correction and natural resources departments.

The hourly employees can make up the time and receive pay for it at the discretion of department heads, a spokesman in Tracy's office said.

Some deductions for hourly employees were made on the Dec. 15 payroll and some were not.

dren, love one another." That, in short, was the heart of the matter: Love. Mankind wrought in love, needed it, lost it, and received it again. That, John had come to know, was the meaning of what had happened to him. That was the theme of the most exciting, tremendous story ever told. The loneliness had ended. The light breaks through. It is Christmas.

Oddest item among the Kennebunkport museum's 80 trolley cars is the "Golden Chariot," which once plied the streets of Montreal to the great delight of Canadian small fry.

Museum Is Filled With Trolley Cars

By STEVE LIBBY

KENNEBUNKPORT, Me. — The snow of Maine's winters is piling high around the world's first and largest collection of trolley cars near here, but come spring, the Seashore Trolley Museum, located in the community where once lived Booth Tarkington and Kenneth Roberts, will again be open for all to enjoy.

For the trolley buff — and there are many — there are all kinds of cars from many vintage: horsecars of the 1880s, birneys, "summer" or "ball park cars," sleek and streamlined subway models and high-speed cross-country interurban speedsters. They came from all over the world, too. From Biddeford, 10 miles to the north, to Australia; from Liverpool's last tram to Italian-made cars; from Canada and across the United States; even from Japan. There are 80 cars in all, enough in quantity and variety to please everyone.

Middle-aged folk who remember when the trolley was king come to visit the museum — and, more often than not, they bring their children with them. It's a real thrill to take a short, scenic ride on the line, both for those old enough to remember when trolleys were an everyday mode of travel and for the youngsters, too. To the juvenile set, the clang-and-rattle is indeed a novelty.

Visitors are given freedom to browse through the cars, rambling through them at will to admire (or remember!) the decor styles of yesteryear.

Unanimous Approval Given Khrush's Plan

MOSCOW (AP)—The Supreme Soviet gave its expected unanimous approval today to Premier Khrushchev's $46-billion plan to expand the Soviet chemical industry and greatly increase production of chemical fertilizers.

The Soviet Parliament also approved the nation's budgets for 1964 and 1965, which include funds for carrying out the first phase of Khrushchev's 7-year plan for the chemical industry.

MARION, Ohio (AP)—Wayne Craft, 36, unemployed father of eight, faces moonshining charges as the aftermath of a federal raid on a shack behind his home Thursday. A 50-gallon liquor still, 50 gallons of mash and other bootlegging materials were confiscated at the place two miles west of here on Ohio 95.

turn to their homes to proclaim their wish to have lived in a day when trolley cars were commonplace rather than a rarity.

A year ago, old "396" of the Boston Elevated Railway became a movie star. She was loaded on a flat-bed truck and hauled to the Boston suburb of Everett, Mass., where she was refurbished, polished and posed before motion picture cameras for "The Cardinal."

The museum was begun 25 years ago when a group of Boston businessmen formed the New England Electric Railway Historical Society by acquiring their first trolley with an "open car" from the discontinued line between Biddeford and Old Orchard Beach.

This small but famous trolley line — it earned fame as "the last of the nickel trolley rides" — later was to supply the museum with a four-wheeled birney acquired by them earlier from the old Portland Street Railway Co. in Maine's largest city. This car, number 615, is still there, along with 79 others.

Members of the society still sneak away from their places of business to work around the old cars, making repairs and otherwise giving vent to their ancient charges. Other volunteers, keeping the trolleys in repair, painting them, or serving as motormen or conductors on the short tours offered by the museum, are former trolley men from such nearby communities as Portland, Lewiston and Sanford.

One young couple even spent their honeymoon working at the museum.

There's no admission charge to the outdoor display area, but passengers may make a donation if they ride on the trolleys or, if they wish, to contribute to the repair and refurbishing work done on the trolleys.

It's open daily during the summer months, on Highway 110, a mile to the east of U.S. Highway 1, three miles north of Kennebunkport.

Four Gospels of Christmas

Apostle John Had Understanding Of Phenomenon of God's Love

EDITOR'S NOTE — The Apostle John lived what he wrote and was a witness to the last great ministry of Jesus. Last survivor of the 12 disciples, John achieved full understanding of the phenomenon of God's love of man that is the great hope of Christmas. Here, in the last of a series of five articles in this story.

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

The withered old patriarch sat in a stone seat in the courtyard of the academy at Ephesus. He was past 90 years of age, the skin shriveled on his bones and his beard a great cascade of white down his chest.

Yet, as he turned toward the students gathered at his feet, his eyes flashed piercingly and his voice crackled with an iron wisdom.

Only John, among the 12 apostles, still survived. He had come to the winter of his life, yet spring still sparkled in him. His memory swam with keen, rousing images that had sharpened with the years.

"Tell us more, O venerable one, of the manifestation of our Lord."

Looking backward, the old firebrand pillar of the church could see it all more clearly and comprehensively. The many separate threads formed a pattern, a vivid mosaic, and he could read its meaning and import.

He said: "In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God. He was in the beginning with God; all things were made through Him, and without Him was not anything made that was made."

So commences the most majestic, awesome and penetrating account of the first Christmas.

It delves into the taproots and fountainhead of Christ, who is called the expressed "Word" or radiating force of the Almighty. The description asserts a strange, seldom noted quality about Him, that he coexisted with God always, from before the physical universe, and that He was the outstretching divine arm that created and vitalized all nature.

"In Him was life, and the life was the light of men," John said. But men had strayed from it, even at the outset. "The light shines in the darkness." Yet darkness had become men's condition, despite the innate light.

That, as the aged apostle perceived it, was the backdrop, the shadowy situation before the new day blazed in human history.

Unlike other presentations of the Gospel, John looked behind its bare incidents to its stupendous, animating basis and its sweeping significance. True, it had unfolded among men, yet it had stemmed from beyond the far ramparts of the world.

John omits any reference to Jesus' birth, earthly parentage or infancy. These things had become common knowledge. Instead, out of the distillation of time, reflection and gradually clarifying insights into an overwhelming experience, John had reached an understanding of it, and sought to put in full perspective.

The hot-blooded young John had once urged Jesus to call down fire on an unfriendly village. Again, John had vied for first place in the coming "kingdom." On each occasion, he had been rebuked. He was dubbed a "son of thunder." Yet he was among Jesus' three most beloved confidantes.

Now, nearly 70 years later presumably in the last decade before 100 A.D., the mellowed nonagenarian had assimilated and slowly brought into sharp, graphic outline just what had happened in those stunning days.

Since then, he had undergone severe tests, and had abundant time to meditate, including a lonely period of exile on the barren island of Patmos, to which he had been banished by Roman authorities and where he had produced his mystical book of revelation, or the Apocalypse.

The ecclesia—those called into faith — remained under harsh contact with it and loss of their strictures, suffering frequent violence. They were widely reviled as atheists because they refused to do homage at state altars. The brutal Domitian reigned as Roman emperor, unleashing sporadic persecutions.

The recurrent waves of oppression, against both Christians and Jews, had gone on since Christ's coming. Revolutionary Israel had been crushed in blood by Roman legions in 70 A.D., never to be a nation again until 1948.

Still, Christianity spread invincibly and a numerous, strong community persisted in Ephesus, capital of Asia Province, with its bustling raucous harbor, its steaming baths, its ornate temple to the mother goddess Diana, a site of wild brawling since no arrest could be made within a bowshot of it.

The church grew in that environment, and apparently even developed a teaching cadre centered around the frail, old Apostle John. Ancient references to the "John" there sometimes are ambiguous, and scholars at one time tended to date his gospel later, by other authorship, but more modern findings support the early tradition.

In his prologue, whether written by himself or dictated to a penman, John sums up the entire case of the divine thrust to mankind, and puts it in total context. The rest of the book is a recital of specific evidence to support the opening conclusion.

John uses simple words and short sentences, almost like an ancient Hemingway, yet they are charged with lofty and powerful content. He offers no chronological account, but rather an array of selected, significant episodes, which stood out in his memory. He deals with only 20 days of Jesus' 1,000-day ministry. Yet the scenes abound with minute, close-up detail.

But what was the meaning of it all? Who was Christ? Where did He come from? And why? John starts out with a considered assessment. Always, he says, the light has shined "in the darkness, and the darkness has not overcome it."

But because of men's loss of their elemental bearings, "the true light that lightens every man was coming into the world." Even before that, "He was in the world, and the world was made through Him, yet the world knew him not."

Then came the climax, the fuller light, the most eloquent utterance of God:

"The Word became flesh and dwelt among us, full of grace and truth."

That was, and is, the phenomenon of Christmas. That is the sublime and amazing reach of God for man. The working extension of Himself, the eternal conveyor of God's thought and energy took on the bones, blood, travail and frailties of man in order to stick with men, and by them, even in their defection.

It was, as John finally understood, love incarnate, love bursting forth in physical creaturehood, in behalf of all humanity. It was not some mystical spiritual action, as the learned Greeks in those days regarded the "Word" of God, but on the contrary, a plainly human, personal earthly event, showing God's interest in the very midst of the material world.

John, out of his long brooding, had achieved a crisp grasp of the whole transaction. He offered no theological speculation about it, but only the inescapable, full-blown reaction of a person to a person. "We have beheld His glory as the only Son from the Father. No one has ever seen God; the only Son, who is in the bosom of the Father, He has made Him known."

John did not try to enumerate every part of the story. If everything Jesus did were "to be written, I suppose that the world itself could not contain the books that would be written," John's account concludes.

It is said that as he neared his death, the feeble old "son of thunder" was carried to meetings of worship in Ephesus on a pallet and he would murmur to all who came near: "Little children, love one another."

That, in short, was the heart of the matter: Love. Mankind wrought in love, needed it, lost it, and received it again. That, John had come to know, was the meaning of what had happened to him. That was the theme of the most exciting, tremendous story ever told. The loneliness had ended. The light breaks through. It is Christmas.

State Aides Get No Pay For Funeral

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Some 8,000 state employees on an hourly pay basis will have to make up the time they were off Nov. 25, the day of the late President John F. Kennedy's funeral, if they expect to be paid for it.

State Auditor Roger W. Tracy has held that state laws governing holiday pay for hourly employees did not cover Gov. James A. Rhodes' proclamation declaring Nov. 25 as a day of mourning and that all state offices be closed.

Employees paid on a monthly basis were not affected, but another law covers the hourly-paid employees, most of whom are in the highway, mental hygiene and correction and natural resources departments.

The hourly employees can make up the time and receive pay for it at the discretion of department heads, a spokesman in Tracy's office said.

Some deductions for hourly employees were made on the Dec. 15 payroll and some were not.

Unless the time is made up, those who were paid for the day in question on the Dec. 15 payroll will find an adjustment on their next pay check, to be received Tuesday.

Bowl Go-Round
Opens Saturday

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Liberty Bowl's troubles are legion—ranging from weather to finances to threats of boycott. But the problems don't extend to football.

North Carolina State and Mississippi State, two of the nation's best college teams, will take care of that end of it. They're scheduled to play in Philadelphia's vast, 102,000 seat stadium Saturday in the fifth and perhaps last Liberty Bowl.

Bowl promoter Bud Dudley predicts a crowd of only 10,000, which entails a personal financial licking of about $20,000 for him. The game is scheduled for

Bill Moss came off the bench to spark a last quarter rally for the Tigers, scoring nine points. High for the winners was Ested with 12.

Maris Takes Cut
In Yankee Salary

NEW YORK (AP)—Now that Roger Maris, normally a reluctant dragon, was in the New York fold for the 1964 season, Yankee General Manager Ralph Houk said today he was eager to sign Mickey Mantle, the other half of the M&M slugging duo.

Mantle reportedly has fully recovered from a knee operation last October, and has been taking daily exercises to strengthen the leg and keep from adding excess weight.

Mantle earned $100,000 last year. It is doubtful if he will be asked to take a cut as was Maris. While no salary terms were announced, it is believed Roger accepted a $10,000 cut.

AL Slugging Title

BOSTON (AP)—Minnesota's Harmon Killebrew won the American League slugging crown last season with a .555 average, ending the two-year reign of Mickey Mantle of the New York Yankees.

The final official averages released today revealed that Killebrew, runner-up to Mantle in 1962, collected 286 total bases in 515 times at bat in 1963.

Bob Allison, another hard-hitting Minnesota outfielder, was second last season with a .530 mark followed by Elston Howard of the Yanks, the circuit's most valuable player, .528. Dick Stuart of Boston and Jimmie Hall, Minnesota rookie, tied for fourth at .521.

Brace Cures
Ouchy Ankle

Ohioan Invents
Pneumatic Gadget

MOUNT VERNON, Ohio (AP)—Suppose you're coaching a team through a rough season and your star player suffers an ankle injury. Does this mean your star is lost for a long time, perhaps the season?

No, says Raymond Yost, a shoe store operator who has developed a pneumatic ankle brace to reduce ankle injuries or perhaps eliminate them altogether.

Central Ohio coaches are praising the brace, which encases the ankle in a cushion of air. The Chicago Bears professional football team is conducting tests with the device.

A few nights ago, Mount Vernon St. Vincent Coach Matt Midea was faced with the prospect of holding out a star player who had suffered a sprained ankle. Midea put one of Yost's braces on the boy's ankle, and the youth not only played a full game but led his team in scoring. When he took the brace off, he went back to hobbling.

Then, when two players found they could play comfortably on their sprained ankles, Midea ordered enough braces for his entire squad.

This incident showed what may be an even more important feature of the device, from an athletic standpoint: The pneumatic brace supports an injured ankle so firmly that a player can be kept in action when he could hardly walk without the brace.

Yost, a shoe store operator in nearby Fredericktown, formed the Pneumatic Athletic Co. of Fredericktown and put the brace on the market last week. Snyder Manufacturing Co. of New Philadelphia is producing the braces.

Chuck Mather, backfield coach of the Chicago Bears, says the device may be the answer to halfbacks who often suffer sprains or kick bruises.

Mather, former Massillon High School coach, says that the brace's air cushion effectively protects ankles from kicks.

Loses Heartbreaker

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Crippled Wittenberg, Ohio's pride, lost a heartbreaker, 54-52, Thursday night to Westminster of Pennsylvania in a basketball battle between two clubs that jockeyed for No. 1 national small college ranking last season.

It was the second defeat in five games for the Springfield Tigers. Preseason calculations had them right at the top of the ratings again, what with four returning starters.

But with both big guns, Al Thrasher and Bob Cherry, out with injuries, it's become rough for last year's NCAA College Division tournament runners up Gabe Kovacs, 6-foot-4 junior from Lakewood filling in for Thrasher, came through as Wittenberg high point man a second straight game but his 11 points couldn't turn the tide.

Dave Schreengost's goal with six seconds left broke a 52-52 tie and settled the issue.

Three of Wittenberg's Ohio Conference rivals also played Thursday night on holidaytime tours. Capital lost to the Quantico Marines 76-72, the Purple's first setback in seven games. The loss reduced the Buckeye unbeaten list to four of the 41 schools recognized by the NCAA or NAIA.

Otterbein (5-2) beat Marian of Indianapolis 71-60 in the consolation game of the Indiana Central Tournament, while Wooster (4-2) conquered Hartwick (N.Y.) 78-73.

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Emile Griffith, the welterweight champion who wants to be middleweight king, steps into the ring tonight against Rubin (Hurricane) Carter, who also has title aspirations.

Griffith, named fighter of the year by the boxing writers association, is a slight favorite in the scheduled 10-round non-title bout, which will be nationally televised.

The winner will be in a strong contending position for a crack at middleweight champion Joey Giardoa.

Offense Is

NEW YORK (AP)—Andy Robustelli, the player-coach responsible for the New York Giants' defense, says the Chicago Bears and the Pittsburgh Steelers rate about the same offensively.

That's a compliment to the Bears, who are noted more for their dynamic defense than for their offensive exploits. The Giants regard the Steelers as a tough team on the attack.

The Steelers trounced the Giants 31-0 in their first meeting when Y.A. Title was out with injuries. But the New Yorkers, with the Bald Eagle back in action, whipped the Steelers 33-17 in the Eastern title-deciding game last Sunday. That victory put the Giants against the Bears for the NFL title at Chicago Dec. 29.

After watching movies of the second game with the Steelers and the Bears' last two games Thursday Robustelli said:

"The Steelers and the Bears look about the same to me offensively. Joe Marconi, the fullback, looked awfully strong to me. He's as tough as John Henry Johnson. Awful tough right at this point."

In talking about the Bears' quarterbacks, Bill Wade and Rudy Bukich, Robustelli said: "Wade is a big, tall guy with exceptionally quick wrists; he's tall enough to look over almost everybody's head and really snap off the short pass. Bukich has the strongest arm in football for the long bomb when they need him. He's the understudy but Rudy is a good pro-quarterback."

Bowl Go-Round Opens Saturday

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Liberty Bowl's troubles are legion—ranging from weather to finances to threats of boycott. But the problems don't extend to football.

North Carolina State and Mississippi State, two of the nation's best college teams, will take care of that end of it. They're scheduled to play in Philadelphia's vast, 102,000 seat Philadelphia Stadium Saturday in the fifth and perhaps last Liberty Bowl.

Bowl promoter Bud Dudley predicts a crowd of only 10,000, which entails a personal financial licking of about $20,000 for him. The game is scheduled for national television coverage over NBC as the collegians hit full stride in the post-season activity.

Other Saturday games include the North-South at Miami and Baylor and Louisiana State in the Bluebonnet Bowl at Houston Tex.

The Gator Bowl, Blue-Gray, East-West Shrine game and Tangerine Bowl are scheduled the following Saturday, Dec. 28; the Sun Bowl at El Paso, Tex., Dec. 31, and the Cotton, Orange, Sugar and Rose Bowls New Year's Day.

Dudley, the Liberty promoter, has taken a financial licking on four of the five bowl games and it's doubtful that he'll try again.

In addition to the difficulties he has had trying to sell two Southern teams — even though they're among the best—to Philadelphia, he has had the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People in opposition. They've threatened to picket the stadium because of Mississippi State's involvement.

And, too, there's the weather. The U.S. Weather Bureau forecasts temperatures in the 20's at game time. Philadelphia Stadium is ringed with snow.

On the field, however, the attraction is top-notch. North Carolina State, coached by Earle Edwards, came through with an 8-2 record and runner-up in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

Coach Paul Davis' Mississippi State team wasn't supposed to have much this season but carved a 6-2-2 record out of a rough schedule. They beat Auburn of the Orange Bowl and LSU of the Bluebonnet, tied Mississippi and lost by a point to Alabama. The last two are in the Sugar Bowl.

Because of its rougher schedule, Mississippi State ranks a 6½-point favorite.

Baylor holds thin edge as a 1½-point choice in the Bluebonnet, primarily because of the passing wizardry of Don Trull. The Bears and LSU each has a 7-3 record and have played four common opponents.

The North-South game, which features the passing of Miami's George Mira vs. the pass-runt threat of Boston College's Jack Concannon, also is scheduled for national television coverage, over ABC. A crowd of about 44,000 was expected.

Tiger Frosh Defeated by Teays Valley

The Teays Valley freshman basketball squad handed Circleville's frosh a 44-35 setback last night, the fifth loss in as many starts for the Tigers.

Circleville trailed 9-6 at the end of the first period, was behind 20-13 at the end of the second and was in the hole 33-19 as the final period began.

Bill Moss came off the bench to spark a last quarter rally for the Tigers, scoring nine points. High for the winners was Est-ed Jan.

Maris Takes Cut In Yankee Salary

NEW YORK (AP)—Now that Roger Maris, normally a reluctant dragon, is in the New York fold for the 1964 season, Yankee General Manager Ralph Houk said today he was eager to sign Mickey Mantle, the other half of the M&M slugging duo.

Mantle reportedly has fully recovered from a knee operation last October, and has been taking daily exercises to strengthen the leg and keep from adding excess weight.

Mantle earned $100,000 last year. It is doubtful if he will be asked to take a cut as was Maris. While no salary terms were announced, it is believed Roger accepted a $10,000 cut.

Celtics Said 'Darn Good' Sans Russell

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP)—"The Celtics are a darn good team without Bill Russell and a great one with him."
The sentiments are those of Boston's former National Basketball Association star, Bill Sharman.
The Celtics lived up to it on Thursday night by surviving a 49-point fourth quarter by the Knicks and still beating New York 143-140 without Russell, the perennial NBA Most Valuable Player.
The defending league champs also were operating without injured Frank Ramsey.
Russell watched the Celtics win their ninth straight on the neutral Providence court, confined to street clothes by a pulled thigh muscle suffered on the last play of the victory over the Knicks Wednesday night in Boston. Russell will not be able to play in New York Saturday night.
Clyde Lovellette moved into center for Russell and contributed 20 points Thursday night. Sam Jones led the parade with 36, Johnny Havlicek added 32, while Tommy Heinsohn as Tom Sanders had 22 apiece.

Small College Scoring Race Tied

NEW YORK (AP) — Ed Williams of Maryland State and Gary Prestesater of Azusa State share the individual scoring lead among the nation's small college basketball players, according to the season's first NCAA statistical ratings released today.
Each has an average of 39.3 points a game, through games of Dec. 14, but Williams gets top billing because he has played in more games, seven. Prestesater has played in four.
They top a list of 10 small college players averaging 30 points or more a game. Among the major college players, nine are averaging 30 or more, led by Howard Komives of Bowling Green at 35.5.

Bobby Richardson of the Yankees made 12 hits in the 1960 World Series and got nine hits in the five-game Series of 1961.

The New York Mets came close to winning their first baseball series but Cincinnati's Reds topped them, 10 games to 8.

NEW YORK (AP)—The secret of beating Sid Gillman is to work for him first as an assistant coach. Jack Faulkner and Al Davis are 5-0 against their old boss in American Football League competition.

Now it is Faulkner's turn to try again with Gillman's San Diego Chargers needing to win or tie their finale with Denver to clinch the Western Division title.

If Faulkner upsets Gillman again, San Diego will fall right into the same trap. A San Diego defeat and an Oakland victory over Houston in Sunday's final game would set up a tie playoff between Gillman and Davis's Raiders. The name of the game is Beat the Boss.

Faulkner beat Gillman twice last year and thumped his Chargers 50-34 early this season. Davis beat Sid twice 34-33 and 41-27 since he took over as boss man at Oakland.

All of which sets up an interesting final weekend of the AFL season. The National Football League season ended last week but the AFL season carried over an extra week because they did not play on the weekend of President Kennedy's assassination.

In addition to the two vital AFL games in the Western Division, the New York Jets will be at Kansas City, also on Sunday. Buffalo and Boston, who finished tied for first in the East with 6-5-1 records, drew a bye this week. They will play off for the division crown Dec. 28 at Buffalo.

Last week's picks boosted the season total to 69-24-5 for the NFL and 28-18-3 in the AFL, an overall total of 97-42-8.

Here we go again for the last roundup, all games Sunday.

AFL
San Diego 31, Denver 17—Sid Gillman breaks the jinx and finally whips an old hired hand with the title hanging on the line. They say Tobin Rote will be ready to crank up the old arm. Broncos have Billy Joe and Mickey Slaughter on doubtful list.

Oakland 24, Houston 17—Tom Flores hit for five TD passes in first route-going job last week. With a chance at a title tie, Al Davis will have the Raiders in full battle dress.

Kansas City 28, New York 14—Chiefs in salary drive get even for 17-0 shutout in New York. Jets without Dick Wood rely on Galen Hall to do passing.

All of which sets up an interesting final weekend of the AFL season. The National Football League season ended last week but the AFL season carried over an extra week because they did not play on the weekend of President Kennedy's assassination.

In addition to the two vital AFL games in the Western Division, the New York Jets will be at Kansas City, also on Sunday. Buffalo and Boston, who finished tied for first in the East with 6-5 records, drew a bye this week. They will play off for the division crown Dec. 28 at Buffalo.

Last week's picks boosted the season total to 69-24-5 for the NFL and 28-18-3 in the AFL, an over-all total of 97-42-8.

Here we go again for the last roundup, all games Sunday.

AFL

The Associated Press reported Wednesday there was no Christmas tree in the mansion. Although there was no decorated tree, Paul said two had been set aside for Mrs. Kennedy and the children to use as they desired.

MADRID, Spain (AP)—A palace spokesman said Princess Sophie of Greece, 25, gave birth today to a daughter.

District Judge Henry E. San to dismissed the case, but said Fleck could appeal.

Fleck and his friends are considering it.

LONDON (AP) — The Soviet Union has reinforced its troops on the frontier with Communist China, Western sources in Moscow report.

Informed officials in London and Paris say a "moderate" eastward movement of Soviet troops from central Russia was detected in October. The army units were understood to be moving toward China's Sinkiang province.

Sinkiang, on China's north-west border with Russia, has been the scene of serious trouble between the two powers the past two years. In September, Peking charged Soviet agents with "enticing and coercing several tens of thousands of Chinese citizens" into Russia.

LONDON (AP) — The Soviet Union has the second greatest navy in the world behind the United States, but the Russian fleet "has a new look which must have a profound effect on naval thinking," the 1963-64 edition of the authoritative Jane's Fighting Ships reported today.

"The Soviet naval watchwords seem to be intelligence, infiltration and interception," the leading western survey of the navies of the world commented.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP)—Finance Minister Carlos Carvalho Pinto resigned Thursday night, and President Joao Goulart named a conservative banker to replace him on an interim basis.

Goulart's appointment of Ney Galvao, former president of the Bank of Brazil, obviously was designed to prevent financial panic at Pinto's resignation. Brazil's economy, by Goulart's admission, is near collapse.

Galvao is expected to follow much the same policies as Pinto, who was noted for a tight governmental austerity program. Goulart's speedy action also quieted business fears that the president would name his anti-American, pro-Castro brother-in-law, Leonel Brizola, former governor of the state of Rio Grande do Sul.

Chuckie West played the part of Johnny who loves holidays because of the vacations from school. Connie Jones, Nadine Hinton, Lynette Justice, Diane Luckhart and Steve Ash were his friends who tried to convince him that there was much more meaning in holidays than a just a vacation from school.

Piano accompanists were Lynn Fraunfelder, Kathy Macklin and Mrs. Florence Bocher.

Lorna Poling sang a solo and Jeff Randall appeared as Abe Lincoln; Mike McFadden as George Washington; Jimmy Thomas as Benjamin Franklin; Eddie Young as Thomas Jefferson; and Timothy Bigham as John Hancock.

18-Year-Old Vote Urged

Presidential Panel Completes Study

WASHINGTON (AP)—A presidential commission recommended today that all states consider dropping the minimum age for voters to 18 and called for eliminating poll taxes and literacy tests as qualifications for voting.

President Johnson called the 11 member commission to the White House to present its report, ordered in March by John F. Kennedy.

The group, labeled the President's Commission on Registration and Voting Participation, was scathing in its denunciation of what it considered roadblocks to voting.

For example, in recommending that the poll tax be eliminated as a prerequisite for voting, it said:

"No American should have to buy his right to vote in any election."

The commission chairman, Census Director Richard M. Scammon, told reporters the recommendation applied to state and federal elections.

Cited as the major argument for 18-year-old voting was the belief that, by the time young people reach 21, they are "so far removed from the stimulation of the educational process that their interest in public affairs has waned."

The report lamented "the low voter participation of the age group from 21 to 30." It surmised that many young people never acquire the voting habit because they fail to start voting right after graduation from high school.

Georgia and Kentucky now are the only states which allow 18-year-olds to vote. The age minimum is 19 in Alaska and 20 in Hawaii and 21 in the other 46 states.

Ohio, but it was canceled, Jaycees said the Russians were very tired and that Mrs. Pozdnev, the only one who speaks English, was a trifle airsick.

About 200 persons were on hand at the Scioto County Airport to greet them, despite near-zero temperatures. Arriving with the Moscow family were McKenzie and his son, Philip, 14, and Jaycee Ronald McCowen, all of whom had gone to New York to accompany the guests to Ohio.

At New York's Kennedy Airport, McKenzie remarked: "I'm favorably impressed with them. They look a little frightened to me."

McKenzie, a member of the Portsmouth Board of Education, said, "We would like to work them into our Christmas celebration. We hope they will help decorate our Christmas tree and that in other ways they will see our faith in the Supreme Being."

He said his wife planned "diversified American meals of hot dogs, hamburgers and steak."

Young Philip said he was eager to take Anatoly to a high school basketball game.

"Our two stars are colored," Philip said, "and we want to let him see how the finest people in our city root for these boys."

Portsmouth insurance executive James C. McKenzie, 34; his wife, Carol Jean, 32, and their three sons and two daughters are sharing their 11-room house with the Pozdnyevs. Both families piled into the McKenzie station wagon at Scioto County Airport Thursday night and drove the 18 miles directly to the McKenzie home for coffee, cake and some sleep.

Today's schedule called for a big American-style breakfast, including sausages; visits to a junior and senior high school (probably for Mrs. Pozdnyev in particular because she is an English teacher); a Chamber of Commerce luncheon, an open house at the YMCA, and a Jaycee dance.

Mrs. McKenzie said about 20 Christmas cards addressed to the Pozdnyevs had arrived at the McKenzie home. Jaycee officials said they also had received a number of cards, and one or two gifts, for the visitors.

Gifts—other than some being arranged for a Christmas Day presentation at the McKenzie home — are being discouraged because of airline restrictions of weight during the return trip. Despite considerable public attention, the McKenzies hope to make the Pozdnyevs' stay a "family-to-family" relationship and give them as typical a view of American life as possible.

The visitors appeared a bit overwhelmed by their welcome and press conference Thursday at New York and Washington, D.C., airports. A third session with newsmen was planned in Ohio, but it was canceled. Jaycees said the Russians were very tired and that Mrs. Pozdnyev, the only one who speaks English, was a trifle airsick.
